and This Having

ALLIES CAREFULLY PLANNING OFFENSIVE

Against All Resources Sure
and Available in France,
Germany Can Offer Nothing
Equivalent, Declares
the Review.

THE Post-Dispatch today presents the ninth and tenth installments of the review of the war obtained by the Associated Press from official French sources. The writer in previous chapters has dealt with the German effort, the use of German troops, officers and material and the "moral" of the German army. The following installments deal with military supplies and the conclusions drawn by the writer, who holds that the essential German plan of a rapid success against the coalition enclosing her having failed, defeat for Germany is certain.

Under the caption, "The Scarcity of Primary Material for Projectiles," the review points out that the chief explanation of the imperfections noted in the German projectiles is to be found in the lack of quality of the primary material. It declares there is "a terrible scarcity of rubber" and that still more serious is "the scarcity of copper, which is indispensable for the manufacture of shells and munitions."

The same condition, it is asserted, holds true of saltpeter and of the nitrate necessary for its manufacture. The review then at great length presents tables and quotations from German writers to prove the scarcity of food supplies within the empire. It says:

"It has been observed on several occasions that the revictualing of the German army has not been as regular as that of the French. In the case of the battle of the Marne and in the weeks which followed, the German prisoners were famished and declared they had eaten nothing for several days."

In the tenth and last installment the writer proceeds to draw his conclusions, which he placed under four heads, as follows:

"The bearing of the German Defeat,"
"The Bearing of the French Success,"
"The Three French Superiorities," and
"The Offensive Faith of the French Army."

"German Plan Has Failed."
Under the events of which an abridged recapitulation has been completed, it remains to appraise the results of these six months of war and to define the possibilities which these results have in store for us in the further operations. It may first of all be affirmed that the fundamental plan of the German general staff has been completely failed. This plan has been superabundantly set forth by German military writers, as also in the Reichstag by the Ministers of War. It aimed at crushing France by an overwhelming attack and at reducing her to a condition of helplessness in less than a month.

"Germany has not succeeded in this. Our army, as we have seen, not only intact but strengthened, full of trust in its leaders and profoundly certain of final success. Germany has not attained the essential object which it publicly set before it. But the defeat which she has sustained does not apply only to her fundamental plan. It extends also to the various operations which she has essayed to secure partial advantages over us in default of the decisive advantage in which she had failed.

"To sum up, the German general staff has placed upon its record since the beginning of the campaign apart from the failures of its general plan, which aimed at the crushing of France in a few weeks, seven defeats of high significance, namely, defeat of the sudden attack on Nancy, defeat of the rapid march on Paris, defeat of the envelopment of our left in August, defeat of the same envelopment in November, defeat of the attempt to break through our center in September, defeat of the coast attack on Dunkirk and Calais, and the defeat of the attack on Ypres.

"The German army, powerful and courageous as it may be, has therefore succeeded in gaining the advantage upon no single point, and its forced halt after six months of war, condemn it to a retreat, the pace of which may be accelerated by the Russian success, but the necessity of which is now a foregone conclusion independently of those successes.

"Bearing of French Success."
Against the extent of the German defeat has to be placed that of the French success. All that our enemies have failed to gain, we have gained, and first and foremost confidence in ourselves. It is certain and it could not

Crowds Force Willard to Appear at Every Stop

Many Travel Miles to Meet Train of Champion,
Enroute North—Engineer Proud to Haul
Fighter Than President.

DATTONA, Fla., April 8.—Jesse Willard, the new heavyweight champion, continued northward today on his journey to New York, with throngs of curious and excited persons flocking to each hamlet and village along the Florida route to greet him. Whether the train was scheduled to stop or not seemed to make no difference, the stations were crowded and the roads blocked with the automobiles, wagons and carriages of many who had come miles to catch a glimpse of him.

"Wherever the train stopped, the car in which Willard rode was stormed by persons who tried to enter to shake his hand. In nearly every instance a speech was demanded. Willard tried to meet all demands, with the result that he was extremely busy every time the train stopped. As it sped over the lowlands toward the north Willard was constantly being introduced to and congratulated by new passengers on the train.

Many amusing incidents occurred during the early portion of the trip. Just before the train left Key West the engineer, an elderly man, came to Willard's car and introduced himself, saying: "Mr. Willard, I want to congratulate you. I am proud to shake your hand. I have hauled several Presidents over this line in my time and never took the trouble to shake their hands, but I'm mighty glad of this opportunity."

At another station, where there was some delay, Willard got off and walked up and down the platform.

In the crowd which had come to see him, there were a number of boys. One finally mustered up enough courage to ask in a shaky voice: "Mr. Willard, do you like kids?"

Willard looked down at the youngster. "Sure I do, I've got four at home," he said.

Thereafter he had a body guard of youngsters six feet deep around him till the train pulled out.

At another station a woman with a baby in one arm and a tin of Johnson's in her hand, insisted that Johnson's conqueror kiss the baby. Willard complied by patting the baby's head.

GIRL, 14, TESTIFIES TO DRINKING WINE AT EHRMAN CAFE

Excise Chief, After Hearing Case,
Intimates He Is Inclined to Treat It Lightly.

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT

Lawyers Nearly Come to Blows
at Hearing—"Morality Squad" Men Testify for Cafe.

Excise Commissioner Rumsey, after hearing testimony today that 14-year-old girls had been served with champagne and other intoxicants at the Ehrman Cafe, 3506 Olive street, took the case under advisement.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter Commissioner Rumsey intimated that, although the evidence that intoxicants had been sold to young girls was positive and had not been refuted, he was inclined to treat the case lightly.

"I have a little 5-year-old daughter," he said, "and I take her with me out to the county and when we stop for a sandwich she always has her little glass of beer."

Commissioner Rumsey indicated with his fingers that he considered a glass of beer of suitable size for his 5-year-old daughter and said: "I don't see any harm in that."

The case was set for Saturday, but was taken up today because, as the commissioner said, he had to leave town. The parties to the case were notified of the change of date. Others did not know of it.

Girl Tells of Getting Drinks.

The charge was made by Robert J. McJilton of 408 Page boulevard, who alleged that drinks had been sold at Ehrman's to his 14-year-old daughter, Lucille, and Edwina Bixby, 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Bixby, 1321 Walton avenue, on Feb. 8, while they were with Charles J. Kennedy of 3403 Bell avenue and Harry Carroll of 4045 Page boulevard.

Lucille McJilton testified that two bottles of champagne and other drinks were served to them on that date and that drinks had been served to her three weeks ago.

Carroll testified that two bottles of champagne were purchased and the contents drunk on Feb. 8.

Edwina Bixby did not appear. Her mother said that she had sent her out to testify, and to get her away from evil influences.

McJilton, Mrs. Bixby said, had talked to her daughter without her knowledge about bringing charges against the Ehrman place and had said that they could get a big slice of money out of the Ehrmans.

She did not know, she said, that her daughter had been drinking there until she read about it in the newspapers.

McJilton testified that his statement to Edwina was that the Ehrmans should be prosecuted and that it ought to cost them a large amount to defend the case.

William Dee Becker, attorney for Mrs. Ehrman, the Independent Brewer's Co. and Bernard A. Costello, the bartender, in whose name the license is held, had himself sworn and testified that Eustace C. Wheeler and Robert A. Thomas, attorneys for McJilton, had called at his office and proposed to dismiss the complaint on the payment of $1250, later reducing their demand to $1000 and then to $750.

Wheeler took the stand and denied Becker's statement. He had discussed with Becker, he said, a basis of settlement of a civil suit to be brought against the Ehrmans.

He had produced to show that evidence could be produced to show that enough drinks had been sold to minors at the Ehrman place to aggregate penalties of $15,000 or $16,000 under the statute which fixes $50 as the amount to be collected for each sale, but had proposed to compromise for $1250.

Thomas also testified that the negotiations related to the civil suit which was to be brought.

Twice Becker and Wheeler were near to blows. Once Becker jumped to his feet and cried, "You are a dirty—" and started toward Wheeler. He was restrained by policemen and witnesses. At another time Becker asked Wheeler, who was testifying, why he did not look Becker in the eye. Wheeler leaped from the witness chair and said, "I'll hit you," and started toward Becker.

POLICEMAN SHOT FATALLY BY WIFE WITH HIS PISTOL

Mrs. J. L. Highley Says They Quarreled When She Objected to Open Window.

HE TRIES TO SHIELD HER

Dies After Telling Physician He Shot Himself—She Had Sued for Divorce.

Mrs. Mary Highley, 33 years old, shot and mortally wounded her husband, Jefferson L. Highley, 37 years old, a policeman, at their home, 6730 Arsenal street, at 6:30 a. m. today. She used her husband's police revolver and fired six shots. One bullet entered Highley's left side and another penetrated the abdomen.

Highley died at the city hospital at 8:35 a. m. Apparently intent on shielding his wife, he told nurses and doctors he had shot himself.

Mrs. Highley, after the shooting, asked a neighbor to notify the police. She remained at her home until policemen arrived.

Quarrel Over Opening Windows.

At the Mounted District Station Mrs. Highley told Capt. Schwartz that a quarrel started at 5 a. m., when Highley arose and insisted on opening all the bedroom windows. Their children, Lawrence, 12; Mildred, 4, and Alice, 3, were asleep.

Mrs. Highley said she objected to the windows being opened as she feared there would be too much draft on the children. She attempted to prevent Highley from raising one of the windows, she said, and he twisted her arm.

Mrs. Highley said her husband ordered her to leave the house. They continued to quarrel at intervals until the shooting. Mrs. Highley said. Highley went to the basement.

Mrs. Highley took her husband's revolver from a wardrobe and followed him to the basement and opened fire on him, she said.

She then went to the door and called to Mrs. Emma Seymour, telling her she had shot her husband and asking her to telephone to the police.

Suit for Divorce Pending.

Mrs. Highley filed a divorce suit March 18. She said the police this was her second divorce suit, the first one having been withdrawn.

Highley became a policeman June 15, 1907. He had been a metal polisher. For several years he had been a patrolman in the Magnolia Avenue District and walked a beat bounded by Park and Chouteau avenues and Grand and Vandeventer avenues.

Capt. Wilson of the Magnolia Avenue District today said Highley had a perfect record as a policeman. In December, 1913, he was beaten by a burglar whom he attempted to arrest near Grand avenue and Arsenal street, while on his way home.

In her divorce petition Mrs. Highley alleged that her husband was of a nagging disposition and cursed her and that he drank to excess and associated with other women. Once, she alleged, he threatened to kill her with a knife.

ARKANSAN REFUSES PARDON

MURDER CONTEST OBJECTS TO THE CONDITION THAT HE LEAVE COUNTRY.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 8.—Members of the State Penitentiary Commission received a letter today from Reedy Vance, who is serving a 20-year sentence in the penitentiary for murder, declining the pardon granted him last week by Gov. Hays on condition that he leave the state.

"If I am not fit to live in Little Rock," wrote Vance, "I am not fit to be free." He still has nearly three years to serve.

THE DYE BUSINESS IS DEAD

Predicting showers in April would seem to be the one best bet for a long range forecaster. For the third successive day the official Weather Bureau prediction today indicated rain and the low-lying, damp-looking clouds seemed ready to verify the prediction in the forenoon.

Then the sun came out. Only one forecast of showers has come true this month. That was early last Monday morning, when a light rain fell. Most St. Louisans were in bed at the time and didn't know the weather man had hit the meteorological nail on the head.

Policeman, Wife Who Killed Him, and Their Youngest Child

MRS. MARY HIGHLEY AND HER DAUGHTER, ALICE.

CARL BUSCH, SON OF LATE BREWER, DIES AT PASADENA

Invalid for Years, He Succumbs
Morning After His Niece's Wedding.

News of the death of Carl Busch, 72 years old, son of the late Adolphus Busch, at the Busch home in Pasadena, Cal., at 7:30 o'clock this morning, reached his brother, August A. Busch of St. Louis, shortly afterward.

Because of his serious illness, which had continued for several weeks, the wedding of Miss Marie Busch, his niece, and C. Drummond Jones, last night, was a much more restricted affair than had at first been planned.

Carl Busch had long been an invalid. He was taken West a few weeks ago in the care of a corps of physicians who were constantly in attendance upon him. It was hoped that the Southern California climate would help him.

Carl Busch was referred to in the will of his father as "my invalid son." In consideration of giving August A. Busch two of the eight shares into which the estate was divided, August was made responsible for the care of his invalid brother. It was the wish of his father that Carl should continue to live as well as he had been accustomed to living, and August A. Busch was directed to supply his wants and necessities as they might arise up to $12,000 a year as long as he might live.

It was provided that the receipt by August A. Busch of his interest under the will should constitute his acceptance of the obligation to so support his brother, Carl, but it was specified that before the two shares were turned over to him the charge in favor of the invalid should be secured in such manner as the trustees might determine.

GAVE UP ALL WHEN BANK FAILED

Wiley O. Cox, Formerly of Kansas City, Dies in Chicago.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8.—Wiley O. Cox, who died yesterday in Chicago, is best known in Kansas City as the man who laid his every possession upon the altar of business honor.

After the voluntary liquidation of the Kansas City State Bank in 1906, of which he was president, he turned over every cent he had that depositors might not lose. Later, when he received $40,000 from the Government through the sale of Indian lands, he insisted the last dollar be used to preserve his business integrity, although it was asserted the bank's creditors had no legal right to the money. Through Cox's action every depositor was paid in full.

Mr. Cox was born in Mississippi in 1844, and came to Missouri in 1868, engaging in banking first in Springfield and later in Kansas City. In 1896 he purchased the Kansas City Times and sold it three years later. He was widely known throughout the State in Democratic politics.

2,000,000 Have Seen Exposition.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—The Panama-Pacific Exposition issued a statement yesterday of its operations from the opening day, Feb. 20, to March 21, which shows a net income for the period of $85,034. Total admissions for the period were 2,000,000.

THE FIGHTING BETWEEN THE MOSSE AND THE MOSSE CONTINUED YESTERDAY.

LONDON, April 8.—The German official report of today on the progress of hostilities, as received from Berlin, says:

"The fighting between the Mosse and the Mosse continued yesterday. In the plain of the Woivre, east and southeast of Verdun, all French attacks failed. In the Combres hills forces of the enemy which have at certain places penetrated into our outer trenches were driven back by a counter attack. Battalions of the enemy which advanced against our positions from the wood of Selouze, north of St. Mihiel, were driven back into the forest with very heavy losses.

"Bitter fighting at short range is going on in the forest of Alf. In the forest to the west of Apremont our troops are in pursuit of the enemy, who made an unsuccessful attack. The total of French losses along the entire front again has been extraordinarily heavy.

"There have been no developments in the eastern area of the war. The weather is bad and the roads are covered with mud.

PETROGRAD, April 8.—The advance of the Russians in the Carpathians has cut the Austrian army under Gen. Boerovich in two places. The eastern wing of this army is in a precarious position.

The Russians have captured Smolnik, east of Lupkow Pass. The Russians also have thrown back the Austrians in the district of Bartfeld and in the district of Lupkow. Having advanced through the Rostok Pass, they have forced a wedge between the Austrian armies.

Smolnik controls the only road through the Beskid Mountains between Maszlabores and Uszok, a distance of 40 miles.

The western wing of the Austrian army has its base at Gummence, and its communication along the roads into Hungary are quite safe. The eastern wing, to the contrary, is joined with the forces operating around Uszok, handicapped by the lack of roads.

In either case the Austrians will find themselves cut off from the main army under Gen. Boerovich and his German reinforcements.

The Russians have crossed the crest of the Beskids at Gummence and are apparently have a clear road to the plains of Hungary.

RUMOR OF WAR BETWEEN HOLLAND AND GERMANY

London Has No Confirmation of Reported Declaration of Hostilities.

LONDON, April 8.—Rumors were current in London today of a declaration of hostilities between Germany and Holland. They were, however, absolutely without confirmation and dispatches from The Hague received late this afternoon ignored any such developments.

The Minister of the Netherlands in London said he had heard rumors to this effect. He had no information himself, but absolutely discredited the report.

It is not known whether the Zarina was destroyed by a mine or a submarine.

DARDANELLES CANNOT BE FORCED, SULTAN TELLS CORRESPONDENTS

He Declares, in First Audience Granted to American Writer, It Was Efficiency and Not Luck Which Made Turkish Victory Of March 18 So Complete—Democratic In His Actions.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 4, via The Hague and London, April 8.—I am convinced that the Dardanelles cannot be forced. The brave conduct of the Turkish troops in the recent operations against the straits permits one to conclude that although the allies bend every effort and use every means their disposal they will be unable to achieve their purpose.

Thus spoke Mehmed V, the Sultan of Turkey and First Caliph of the Moslem world, today in the course of an audience which he had granted the Associated Press correspondent. The Sultan throughout the audience showed and expressed the greatest confidence in Turkey's ability to withstand the onslaught of the allied forces, and followed with the keenest interest a description of the operations by the allies on March 18 against the Dardanelles. He was given by the correspondent of the Associated Press, who acted as spokesman for those who had been accorded the audience.

The various phases of the bombardment were discussed by his majesty in a manner demonstrating that he was well informed on the affair, but he was greatly interested in the human aspect of this tremendous action. What was the effect of the enemy's fire? What impression was made upon the mind by the Turkish troops and what was the fate of the population of the towns near the straits? All these were things in which the Sultan showed deep concern.

Sultan in Cordial Mood. Mehmed V was in a most cordial frame of mind. Many of the incidents related by the correspondents brought to the Sultan's face broad smiles of satisfaction, appreciation and amusement. How the correspondents had been obliged to make a hasty retreat when the Sultan's shells appeared to be of special interest to his majesty.

When one of the correspondents told the Sultan that he had been rendered nervous in Chanak Kalesi by the explosions of large shells, the Sultan impelled him to stop at every word, and how an old interpreter of the Sultan's was resting on the arm of the arm, each time saying "Kismet," the Sultan was much amused and touched the newspaper man on the shoulder in a most fatherly fashion and proceeded to explain that the Sultan's "Kismet" was improper under such circumstances.

"The old man should have used the word 'Kader,' because that term expresses more fully what he wanted to convey," said His Majesty. "The word 'Kader' means that our fate is in the hands of a superior force and what is to happen will happen anyway. The idea is known among you, I believe, as fatalism. But 'Kader' alone will not do; we also must work."

This incident disposed of His Majesty asked the correspondent of the Associated Press to continue his description of the French war ship Bouvet and the British Irresistible. That the former had disappeared within three minutes brought a look into the kindly gray eyes of His Majesty, as if he regretted that so many human beings had perished without a chance to fight for life.

The Sultan then asked if his troops appeared to be happy and contented. The answer being emphatically in the affirmative, a new smile of satisfaction lit up his face.

"It has been said that it was the factor of luck that made our victory on March 18 so complete and great," he remarked, "but we in the Turkish have a saying, 'Luck is infatuated with the efficient.'"

"It appears very unjust to me that the allies want to force the Dardanelles and take Constantinople just to import foodstuffs from Russia. But our army and coast defense forces have shown their ability and willingness to do their duty. I am speaking here not alone of the Turkish defenders of the Dardanelles, but also those Germans who have so efficiently and bravely co-operated with them."

"I would thank you if you would say for me that my admiration for the German troops in the East and the West is so great that it is impossible for me to express in words my high opinion of their valor and efficiency. Concerning their chief commander, Emperor William, I can only say that we in Turkey pray that he may enjoy the best of health for many years."

"I have seen stories in the newspapers asserting that the German Emperor is on the verge of a breakdown, but I assure you that I place no faith in what part of the press alleges nowadays. I regret having to say that, but no other course is possible."

Pleased Over Medal Gifts. The Sultan was informed that Emperor William was sending with Field Marshal von Der Goltz from crosses of the first and second classes, with which he intended to decorate his majesty. The Sultan appeared highly pleased.

"I am proud of being presented with medals which decorate so many brave men," he said.

So far the Sultan had occupied himself entirely with recent developments in the Dardanelles. Addressing himself to the American correspondent present, he now said:

Am pleased to see that you

April Showers in Europe

German Defeat Certain Says French Review

be otherwise, that at the outset our troops and the country itself still remained under the impression of the defeat of 1870. The victory of the Marne, confirmed by the victory of Flanders, the impossible barrier set up against the most formidable effort which has ever been attempted in the military history of the world, have created a feeling of security which grows stronger every day.

"Everyone is aware that in order to gain the day against the coalition which encloses her Germany needed a rapid success. This rapid success lacking, her defeat is certain. If for the last three months the French command has not engaged in a general offensive, it has had three decisive reasons for this. The first is that, having time on its side, it intends to make its efforts only after it has assembled all the means upon which it can rely, within a more or less interval of time, with absolute certainty."

"We have seen that the French army is strengthening itself every day, in heavy artillery, in explosive weapons for the trenches and in projectiles. It is known that the British army in France which at first consisted of four divisions is today (beginning of February) composed of 10 British divisions, two Indian divisions and two cavalry corps, with 900 guns, of which 100 pieces are of heavy artillery. (A British division has 15,000 combatants.) It is known also that the number of troops now with the colors and being trained in England is very large."

"It is known that the Belgian army, which is reconstituting itself with shortness of time, will shortly have six divisions of infantry and two divisions of cavalry. It is known that the Serbian army, supplied afresh with material and munitions, is once again prepared to show its splendid qualities. It is known finally that Russia continues to draw upon the immense reservoir of her recruits, having up to the present utilized only the twentieth part. These are the reasons why the French command has not hurried and awaits the hour which it considers favorable. These reasons, based on precise motives which are easy to test, are entirely irrefutable."

"French Superiorities." "If, then, we turn to the future, we note that:

"The wastage of the German army in all respects greater than that of the French army. The principal cause of this is the superiority of our artillery and the fighting methods of the German infantry, which attacks in close formation than does ours. It is now certain that the losses of our adversaries are double ours."

"The possibilities of the German army from the point of view of effectiveness will go on decreasing more and more. The German population capable of bearing arms is in comparison with the French population in the proportion of three to two. Now, at the present time, landsturm included, Germany is employing on the French front a number of men representing two-thirds of her resources against one-third on the Russian front. On account of the Austrian defeats Germany will be obliged to strengthen her forces against Russia more and more. The number of troops opposed to France will, therefore, continually decrease. Our position will be improved by this as also by the number of German losses, which will always remain larger than ours, and finally by the large reinforcements which the British between now and July will send to the Continent."

"The capacities of the German army in the matter of regimental organization, already inferior to ours, are becoming so still more. Granted that our adversaries at the beginning of war had more cadres (basic organization) than ourselves, the text books show that their superiority in this respect was considerable less than their superiority in men. It was not as much as three to two. Now it is an established fact that the German losses in officers are greater than ours. We shall therefore certainly have the advantage from this point of view if, indeed, we have not already."

Offensive Faith of French. "Out of all these elements has been born the offensive faith of the French army and its leaders. We have before us two systems. The one, the German system, demanded a rapid success at the opening of the campaign, a success against France before the Russians could come upon the field, before the British reserves could intervene, before the economic trouble could make itself felt. Hence the creation in all haste of new corps whether or not they could be kept up for a long time. By predetermination the victory was to be immediate. Now this necessary victory, the Germans did not have."

"The other system, the French system, consists, with the advantage of the freedom of the seas, in maintaining in good and complete form a number of sufficient formations, and in creating new ones only in the measure in which they can be kept up and suitably and durably equipped with regimental organization."

"This system is established with a view to a prolonged war. Of these two systems, which, after six months of trial, shall triumph? To put the question to answer it. The Germans can no longer oppose us with forces superior to ours. They will, therefore, not be able to do in the future what they could not do in the past when they were one-third more numerous than ourselves. Consequently our final victory must follow by the imperious necessity of the concordant force of facts and figures."

"Our effort, too, is from now onward directed toward that offensive which we shall take at our own good time and the issue of which cannot be doubtful."

"Our reinforcements are being trained in the instruction camps with a view to that offensive. It is in view of the offensive that from day to day our stores of munitions, food and transport are being increased. It is in view of the offensive that important reserves of telegraphic, telephonic, railway and shipping material have been constituted. It is in view of the offensive that the reoccupation of the Belgian, Luxembourg and Alsace-Lorraine networks of railway has been prepared for, and that a military commission, English, French and Belgian, is preparing to work them. It is in view of the offensive that to our 10,000 heavy lorries we have added with the powerful aid of our automobile industry more than 4000 new transport wagons since the beginning of the war. Against all this which on our side is sure and available, Germany can offer nothing either equivalent or analogous."

AUSTRIA FAILS TO PROTEST AGAINST ITALY'S WAR MOVE

Belief in Some Quarters in Rome Is That Concessions Yet Will Be Made.

By Associated Press. ROME, April 8.—Italy's failure to enter the war up to the present time is explained in official circles as due to the fact that the country's statesmen do not wish to plunge the nation into the enormous risks of war without first exhausting every possible means of obtaining what the people desire without recourse to arms. It is pointed out that in the meantime Italy is gaining every day in military strength and in economic resources by postponing her entrance into the conflict.

Official reports received here from European capitals are said to agree in the statement that the supreme clash between the allies on the one side and the Austro-German armies on the other, which originally seemed certain to take place in May, will be postponed until June or even later. The answer made to those who are urging immediate hostilities is that under the circumstances there is no reason why Italy should hasten her action since the longer she delays, the greater will be her chances of success and the greater the aid she would be able to give those countries on whose side she would align herself.

No attempt is made to deny that a war against Austria, for which the Italian people long have felt animosity, would be popular. In this connection it is pointed out that the Italian army has been successfully mobilized without a protest from Austria, the country most obviously threatened. This is taken in some quarters to indicate that the leaders of the dual monarchy are desirous of averting hostilities and that they may yet consent to make the territorial concessions Italy desires.

Carasso Effendi and Midhat Bey, the first member of the Turkish Chamber of Deputies and the second former secretary of the Turkish Committee of Union and Progress, are in Rome. They deny having any special mission, but it is recalled that they appeared here on the eve of negotiations leading to the peace between Italy and Turkey.

Referring to the Dardanelles, these two Turks today expressed conviction that they could not be forced even with a powerful army. They described the economic situation of the Turkish people as excellent, and denied the current reports that Germany was ruling Turkey. They said Turkey had decided to take part in the war the day the German cruiser Goeben was permitted to enter the Dardanelles.

Italian Fleet Concentrated Within Few Hours of Adriatic. ON THE ITALIAN FRONTIER.

Aviator Drops Bomb, Sending Three Russian Machines to Earth

BERLIN, by wireless to Saville, April 8.

A report of an extraordinary aerial fight was given out today by the Overseas News Agency, which says that its information was received from Budapest. It concerns an encounter between one Austrian and three Russian aeroplanes.

The Austrian aeroplane, it is said, succeeded in mounting above its adversaries and dropped a bomb which struck one of the Russian aeroplanes. The Russian machine plunged 1500 yards to earth.

The report goes on to say that the atmospheric disturbance caused by the fall of the aeroplane upset the other two Russian machines, causing them both to whirl down to earth.

April 7.—The warships of the Italian fleet departed suddenly Monday from the Mediterranean naval stations at Spezia, Gaeta and Maddalena Island. They concentrated at Augusta, Sicily, and at Taranto. They are thus within a few hours of the Adriatic.

Italy now has the finest fleet in her history. It is headed by several new dreadnoughts, of which the most formidable is the Conte di Cavour, which corresponds in the Italian navy to Great Britain's Queen Elizabeth.

It is stated that only the King and one or two of the highest Government officials are acquainted with the plans for the fleet.

Russian frontier are for the time being impassable. The French War Office's report today says that in the valley of the Aisne and the district to the east of Rheims the French efforts, in spite of the abnormally bad weather, continued with great activity and they have maintained their gains between the Meuse and the Moselle. In the Brule Forest the French captured a German trench and took a large number of prisoners.

The Belgian Minister of War announced that the western side of the Yser Canal, in the direction of Driel Grachten, has been completely freed of Germans by Belgian troops and that the Germans fled in disorder, leaving behind them machine guns and ammunition.

Can Believe Combined Land and Sea Attack Will Force Dardanelles. NAPLES, April 7.—Gen. Pau of the French army, who has been on a mission to Petrograd and the Balkan capitals, has arrived here on his way to Rome and Paris. When asked by an interviewer whether it was true that Russia, Serbia and Montenegro would join with Great Britain and France in a fierce simultaneous attack in an effort to crush Germany and Austria, he declined to answer.

Referring to the Dardanelles operations, Gen. Pau expressed the belief that the Anglo-French fleet would force a passage as soon as preparations are completed for a combined attack by land and sea.

British Egyptian Patrols Encounter Turkish Cavalry. CAIRO, Egypt, April 8.—The following official statement was given out today by the military authorities:

"Yesterday morning a small body of Turkish cavalry was seen by our patrols a few miles northeast of Kantara (on the railroad between Port Said and Ismailia). A few shots were exchanged and the enemy retired. There were no casualties on either side."

"All aeroplane reconnaissance shows there are no bodies of troops within reach."

Turkey Calls Out All Men Capable of Bearing Arms. LONDON, April 8.—An order promulgated today by the Sultan of Turkey, authorizes the Ministry of War to call out all men capable of bearing arms, but who heretofore were not liable for service, inclusive of the ages of 19 and 20, for the defense of the Turkish coast and frontiers and the maintenance of order. The Ministry also is given power to enroll for military service all immigrants for the duration of mobilization. This information is contained in a dispatch received today by Reuters' Telegram Co. from Constantinople.

British Lists Show 2061 Casualties in Neuve Chapelle Fighting. LONDON, April 8.—The big list of casualties of the rank and file of the British army issued yesterday of the recent fighting at Neuve Chapelle was increased today by the giving out of another list, which contained the names of 1108 men. Of these 346 were killed and the remainder wounded.

The casualty list issued yesterday carried the names of 133 noncommissioned officers and men of 70 different regiments. Of these 69 were killed and 107 wounded, while 97 were reported missing. The list of today shows 400 men killed, 1889 wounded and 87 missing. Altogether the lists show casualties amounting to 2861 in killed, wounded and missing.

The lists evidently covered the losses received in part of the sanguinary fighting which resulted in the capture of Neuve Chapelle last month.

Twelve Women and Children Killed by Austrian Aviators' Bombs. PARIS, April 8.—Twelve women and children were killed and 45 others injured by bombs dropped by Austrian aviators in the market place at Podgoritz, Montenegro, yesterday afternoon, according to a Cetinje dispatch to the Havas Agency. Many buildings were destroyed by the missiles, seven of which were dropped from the aeroplane.

MISS JANE RICKER OF KIRKWOOD SHOT BY NEGRO INTRUDER

Member of Wealthy Family Seriously Wounded on Visit to Unoccupied Old Homestead.

BEATEN WITH REVOLVER

Woman, Who Had Gone to House for Some Trinkets, Made Way to Neighbors for Aid.

Miss Jane Ricker, 40 years old, member of a wealthy family which has resided for years at Kirkwood, was shot twice and seriously wounded this morning by a negro intruder in the old Ricker homestead, which occupies an entire block at Harrison and Jefferson avenues, in Kirkwood.

Since the death two years ago of her father, E. Drew Ricker, the homestead has not been occupied. Miss Ricker had gone there with a market basket about 2 o'clock to gather some trinkets from a room on the second floor.

Negro Wanted Money. Intending to walk into the rear yard, she started into the kitchen, and was confronted there by a young negro who had been eating in the room. She demanded to know what the negro was doing in the house, and was told he wanted her money.

Miss Ricker said she had some change upstairs, and would get it. As she started to leave the kitchen the negro sprang toward her, pressed a revolver close to her head and fired twice. One bullet entered the neck and the other grazed the skin on her forehead. The negro then struck her twice on the head with the revolver, and Miss Ricker fell unconscious.

When Miss Ricker regained consciousness, she picked up her basket and ran, in a daze, 500 yards to the home of Frank Roseman, where, after explaining she had been shot, she fainted. Dr. Henry Hanson, former County Health Commissioner, whose home adjoins the Roseman residence, gave temporary treatment.

Fast Ride to Hospital. Coroner Bopp was notified by telephone. He took Miss Ricker to St. Luke's Hospital in his automobile, and said he made the trip, about 10 miles, in 15 minutes. John Kelly sat in the machine and held Miss Ricker's head.

Miss Ricker's brother-in-law, Dr. John H. Armstrong, who has offices in the Wall Building at 3905 Olive street, was at his home in Kirkwood. He hurried to St. Luke's and assisted in treating Miss Ricker's wounds. Dr. Armstrong said an X-ray examination would be made to determine if a bullet had lodged in Miss Ricker's head. Her condition, he said, was serious.

The report of the shooting was telephoned by friends about the town and soon quite a crowd had gathered about the old Ricker homestead. At first was thought the negro might have barricaded himself in a room in the homestead, and preparations were made to give battle. Later some men ventured into the house and found it empty.

Tells of the Shooting. Miss Ricker, at the hospital, told the story of the shooting. She said she had been in the house only a few minutes when she found the negro loitering there.

Sheriff Bode has sent for bloodhounds and will make an effort to trail the negro. The authorities think the negro may have been a burglar who has been active recently in Kirkwood, and who obtained, among other loot, a pistol.

Miss Ricker resides at the home of Mrs. M. N. du Bois, 138 West Adams street. She is one of the executors of the $100,000 estate of her father, who was a retired furnace manufacturer.

Rockefeller Tells How His Philanthropies Are Conducted

Confidence in People's Good Sense

Oil King Believes in Giving More for Large Schools Than for Other Institutions —Defends Work of Foundation.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, in an article in this week's Saturday Evening Post, explains the basic principles upon which his vast philanthropies have been organized. Adorned sparingly, but effectively, with epigrams upon human nature in general, the article tells why the oil magnate believes in giving more to schools than to other institutions, why large bequests should be handled by organizations rather than by individuals, why Rockefeller considers groundless the often expressed fear that it is dangerous for a public institution to receive money from private interests.

"It is a great power to be able to give money," he says. "It may be equally virtuous or commendable to withhold it. A great responsibility rests upon the administrators. But I have a great deal of confidence in the trustees as well as in the American people and their good common sense. In that lies our security."

At the outset the writer tells of the futility of trying to reach him with a personal appeal for financial aid. His long experience has taught him that it is rarely worth while to give help to individuals or to local institutions which ought to expect their chief support from their immediate territory. Only movements of national or international scope can hope for an audience, and they must submit in writing along with their requests detailed information as to what they expect to do and what their limitations and surroundings are.

Three Classes of Claims.

It would be unwise for him to read all the letters sent to him, even if it were possible, Rockefeller declares. He has created a department to handle them. All letters are sorted and classified into three grand divisions. The first class includes claims of local charities. Very few of these get favorable answers. Those only selected which are identified with associations of standing and not then until the association has examined the appeal and determined whether the money could be better spent in this one way than in any other. An instance is cited of an attempt to get money for a founding asylum. Although the people back of the movement were eminently worthy, investigation revealed that the town in question already had more shelter for orphans than applicants. The money was denied.

"It may be urged that doing the work in this systematic and apparently cold-blooded way," he reasons, "leaves out of consideration to a large extent the merits of individual cases. My contention is that the organization of work in combination should not and does not stifle the work of individuals, but strengthens it."

Most Important Appeals.

THE last and, to Rockefeller, most important appeals are those in behalf of higher education. "The best philanthropy," he declares, "is constantly in search of the finalities—a search for cause, an attempt to cure evils at the source. My interest in the University of Chicago has been enhanced by the fact that, though it has comprehensively considered the other features of a collegiate course, it has given so much attention to research." That brings him to what he seems to consider his greatest philanthropic ideal, the creation of "Benevolent Trusts" to receive bequests for educational institutions and to direct their financial affairs. He believes that this ought to be done by individuals.

LIVING SO COSTLY ST. LOUIS WOMAN LEAVES BERLIN

Mrs. L. C. Pearson, Who Resided in German Capital Eight Years, Says Prices Have Doubled.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, April 8.—Assigning the cost of living in Berlin as the reason for their journey, Mrs. L. C. Pearson and her daughter, Margaret, of St. Louis, arrived here aboard the Noordam today.

Mrs. Pearson and her daughter have lived for the last eight years in the German capital. Mrs. Pearson said that despite official reports to the contrary, prices in Berlin were at twice their former figures. She said, too, that the system of bread tickets was rigidly enforced, even to the extent that, if one were caught deceiving the authorities, he incurred a penalty of two years at hard labor.

The Noordam had a thrilling trip. After dodging through fields of floating mines, and being boarded by a British naval detachment off the Downs, she had bad weather the rest of the way.

Four of her 200 passengers were taken off the Noordam by a British patrol boat. Hans E. Benedix, a German, who has been connected with the Staats Zeitung here, was one of those detained by the British. Benedix had returned to Germany to serve six months in the army, in order to protect some property interests which would otherwise have been forfeited, and, after having been wounded and sent to the hospital for two months, was on his way back to New York to join his wife.

Treasurer Victor Ridder of the Staats Zeitung Co. declared the detention of Benedix was British reprisal against the policy of his paper.

IF KIDNEYS FEEL LIKE LEAD OR YOUR BACK IS ACHING, TAKE SALTS AT ONCE

We all eat too much meat, which clogs the Kidneys, and they need a flushing, else we must suffer.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally. Says a well-known authority, "Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys."

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—ADV.

FREDERICK TAKING REST IN MILWAUKEE AFTER CAMPAIGN

Newly Elected President of Board of Aldermen and Wife Visiting Daughter.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 8.—"It's too early to outline any definite plans for the future," said A. H. Frederick, newly elected President of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen, to a Post-Dispatch correspondent today.

Frederick and his wife are at the home here of their son-in-law, H. F. Hunter. He said he was here for a rest.

"In the first place, I have hardly recovered from the campaign," Frederick said. "I never dreamed that there could be so hotly fought an election battle. I am tired out, utterly weary, and thought that by coming to Milwaukee to my son-in-law's home I could get a real rest for a few days, and forget there had been a campaign in St. Louis. Monday I shall be back and then I'll be able to start thinking about how I shall conduct my office."

Never Thought of Resigning. "This ought to be sufficient answer to the St. Louis report that I am planning to resign. I have never thought of such a thing, have never had it suggested to me or suggested it to anyone else."

"I am going to undertake the duties of the office to which the St. Louis people elected me with a determination to do everything that comes up conscientiously and for the best interests of St. Louis. I have made no campaign promises and am free to act as my judgment dictates. I should be foolish at this time to outline my plans for the future except to say that I shall carry out my campaign pledges to the voters who elected me."

"I can now appreciate the greatness of Theodore Roosevelt's physical strength. In a municipal campaign I have been so weary that I had to run away and hide for a two days' rest. Roosevelt campaigns for weeks and never shows it. I tried to get away from the election by coming here."

Instead, the moment I arrive I am met with a telegram from St. Louis congratulating me upon a 22,000 victory. Then I am met by newspaper men, who tell me I am supposed to resign. I am not going to resign. That is a signment from the minds of my opponents. "I am not so sick that I cannot hold my job. I am resting from a campaign more strenuous than I believed possible, and I also took the first opportunity to see my daughter, who is sick in a hospital here, and whom I could not get away to see in the midst of the campaign. Thank my St. Louis friends for me and say once more I shall try to justify their confidence in me."

Frederick left this noon for the country, in the Oconomowoc Lake region, to spend a few days out-of-doors. He will be back in St. Louis Monday morning, he says.

Julius Haller, Supported for Vice President of Aldermen.

In Republican circles it is said the organization, led by Chairman Schmoil, will support Julius Haller, Alderman from the Twenty-fourth Ward, for Vice President of the board. The Vice President acts as President of the board during the absence or incapacity of the President.

The canvass of returns was started today in the office of the Election Board and will be completed this week, when certificates of election will be presented to 25 Republican members of the first Board of Aldermen, and four Republicans elected to the School Board.

Several candidates for clerk of the new body, a $300 post, are in the field. Maurice V. Gordon, Republican City Committeeman of the Twentieth Ward, who is assistant secretary of the Council, is seeking the place. Daniel A. Corbett, assistant clerk of the last House of Delegates, and Horace G. Beedie, chief clerk of the law department, also are candidates. Corbett is the most experienced legislative clerk in the city, having spent eight years in the House service. He is a Republican but has been retained by two Democratic Houses because of his experience.

EXCHANGE SEAT BRINGS $49,500

Jump in New York Price Taken as Sign When Times Are Near.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Stock Exchange seats have jumped again, having gone up $400 between the opening and closing of the exchange yesterday. The first sale was made at $45,000, the second at $46,000, the third at $48,000 and the fourth at $49,500, the highest price of the year. A seat was sold one week ago for $44,500 and in January for $37,000.

Wall street interprets the sharp rise in the price of seats as indicative of an early return of boom times. The high price of 1914 was $39,000 and the low price $34,000, paid in October, when the exchange was closed. That was the lowest price in 15 years. In 1913 the high price was $53,000, the low price $37,000. A high record was made in the boom of 1906, when a seat sold for $56,000.

Suspects as His Assailants.

Within half an hour after Frank Merk of 1112 East Gano avenue was taken and robbed by three men, this morning, the police had the alleged robbers under arrest, and were applying for warrants against them. Merk was knocked down at Broadway and Buchanan street shortly after 8 o'clock. The robbers took his purse and when they found it was empty drew it at his face. They then took pocketknives from him and ran into a railroad yards east of Broadway. Fifteen minutes later Merk met Paulmen Kroezer and Schlueter. They reached the yards and found the allleged robbers hiding in a box car near Hall street and Bremen avenue. Merk's knife was on the ground near the car. The men ran as the patrolmen approached the car, but when the policemen drew their revolvers they surrendered. Merk identified them, and they were taken to the station. They said they were Martin O'Brien, 18 years old, of 200 North Twelfth street; Robert Carey, 30 years old, of 1829 Farren street, and John Bunning, 19 years old, of 1406 Dodder street. Bunning was recently released from the workhouse, where he served a term for the theft of automobile tires.

EITEL INTERNS: EXPECTED RELIEF FAILED TO ARRIVE

Captain Notifies Washington of Decision Only After Aid Is Not Sent to Ship.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 8.—With the internment today of the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich and her crew, the commerce destroyer ended her spectacular war career. Details of the actual internment of the Prinz Eitel before being taken to the Norfolk Navy Yard, where she will remain until the end of the war, were worked out at a conference early today between Admiral Fletcher, Commander in Chief of the Atlantic fleet, and the Admiral Helm of the warship Alabama; Commandant Beatty of the Norfolk Navy Yard and Collector of the Port Hamilton.

The decision of Commander Thierichens of the Prinz Eitel to intern his ship followed the receipt by him of an imperative notice from the United States Government early last night that the time limit for his stay in this port would expire at midnight. Had he not asked to intern his ship, Capt. Thierichens would have been compelled to depart from American waters not later than 4 o'clock this morning.

Fails to Get Aid.
In requesting permission of the Washington Government to intern Capt. Thierichens explained that "failure of expected relief to arrive," made the step necessary rather than "deliver crew and ship to fruitless and certain destruction by British and French warships waiting off the Virginia Capes." It was said that he had expected German warships to arrive to aid him in eluding the allies' warships.

On board the Prinz Eitel today, which up until the last moment before her time limit expired had appeared to be ready for a dash to the sea, Capt. Thierichens and his men seemed to be gloomy. The Captain declared today that he was heartbroken because he had been forced to intern and said that he had not intended doing so had it not been absolutely necessary.

Many British Ships Depart.
Many British ships were leaving this port today as a result of the decision to intern the Prinz Eitel, which action operated to lift the American embargo against commerce ships of the allied European countries.

With the taking of the Prinz Eitel to the Norfolk Navy Yard today, the breech blocks of her guns were to be removed and the connecting rod of her engine detached. The Prinz Eitel had been laid up here since March 10, when she came into port following her remarkable commerce raiding voyage from the Orient, during which she destroyed the American ship William F. Frye.

Says, "What if I Did?"

PATERSON, N. J., April 8.—Attendance at the revival meetings being conducted here by Billy Sunday continued below the standard maintained at other of his meetings. The attendance last night was a little larger than on the night before.

Sunday, dressed in his flowered silk dressing gown, fastened with a diamond pin, saw reporters at his apartment yesterday. His comments upon newspapers, and especially upon New York reporters, who quoted him verbatim, caused Billy to bang the table in anger.

"New York newspaper men who say that I said Paterson audiences are compared to the Philadelphia crowds, are liars," he yelled.

Never Asked Paper's Support.
"The people who write this stuff in the New York papers," shouted Sunday, with another bang that made the china and glassware rattle, "are a lot of lying reporters; that's what they are. Let 'em stay away if they don't like things. I never asked newspaper support in my life."

"Certainly—we're delighted with our reception here."
When Sunday finished his sermon, a group of reporters from New York approached him as he came from the platform.
"Mr. Sunday," began the spokesman of the group, "you're quoted as saying that we're a lot of liars and fakers in quoting you as saying that you think Paterson audiences are cool to you, compared to Philadelphia and other cities."

Report Contradicts Him.
"I never said that about Paterson crowds in my life," yelled Sunday, whereupon the men to whom Sunday had said it pressed up closer.

"Beg pardon, you said it to me, Mr. Sunday," said one.
Sunday stared at the group for a moment uncertainly, while one of the men to whom he had made the statement repeated the assertion a bit more vehemently. "Oh, well," he roared, "what if I did? Why don't you let me alone? If you don't like my style of talking, why don't you beat it? You come over here for the purpose of breaking up my meeting. Beat it if you don't like it—all of you."

DIVORCE SUIT DISMISSED BUT COUPLE ARE UNRECONCILED

Walter E. Baack, Head of Millinery
Company, Says He and Wife
Are Mismatched.

Although Walter E. Baack, president of the Baack, Dyer & Brecht Millinery Co., yesterday signed with his wife a stipulation to dismiss his divorce case, after Judge Kimmel had tried to reconcile them, he told reporters today that a reconciliation is out of the question, as he is concerned. The wife had brought charges of indignities and the husband had replied with a cross-bill, also alleging indignities. After hearing some of the testimony, Judge Kimmel called the couple to his private office and tried to effect a reconciliation. They had agreed to a dismissal of the case, and again separated, the wife, Mrs. Ethel A. Baack, 21 years old, going to the home of her mother, Dr. Mae S. Harris, 323 Olive street. Baack today says that he and his wife are mismatched and uncompanionable, and declared he would not even meet her to talk over a reconciliation.

Item Welcomed by Many Men

This will prove a welcome bit of information for all those who are overworked, gloomy, despondent, nervous and have trembling limbs, heart palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities, insomnia, fear without cause, inability to act naturally and rationally as others do, because the treatment, consisting of grain tablets, can be obtained and taken without the knowledge of any one. If the reader has any of the symptoms, and decides to try it, just go to any large, well-stocked drug store and ask for three-grain Cadomene Tablets, and then take according to the directions which accompany each sealed tube. The tonic-invigorating power is soon felt and the joy of a healthy body experienced. These tablets originally dispensed by prominent physicians and pharmacists, now are packed with full directions for self administration, so that it is wholly unnecessary to pay a physician for prescribing them.—ADVERTISEMENT.

How to Have Red Lips!

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful for both delicate health—vigorous, forceful, magnetic health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states or health, yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and men are almost colorless, because of a lack of red blood corpuscles. When the blood is improved and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases and a beautiful tint appears on the cheeks, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and beauty doctors prescribe three-grain hypo-nuclease tablets which are said to invariably increase the red blood corpuscles after a course of treatment lasting several months. The nervous system and general health also improve rapidly. The best physicians and apothecary shops supply this tablet in sealed packages.—ADVERTISEMENT.

Why Do French Women Always Look Young

In France mothers and daughters look like sisters. How are the women there able to retain their youthful looks until long past middle age? Is it because they are much given to the use of marcelled wax? This wax possesses a remarkable absorbent property which quickly removes the fine particles of cuticle which are constantly drying and which are the immediate cause of an old-looking complexion. Thus the livelier, healthier, younger skin beneath is given a chance to breathe and show itself. Try this treatment yourself. Most likely it will not require two weeks to make your complexion as clear, soft and beautiful as a young girl's. Just one ounce of marcelled wax (all American druggists have it) usually does the work. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and washed off mornings. Another valuable secret with which the French are familiar is how to quickly remove wrinkles. One ounce of powdered stannite dissolved in a half pint of witch hazel makes a marvellously effective wrinkle lotion. The face should be bathed in this daily until even the deepest lines are affected.—ADVERTISEMENT.

WHAT 'THREE MOST NOTED AMERICAN WOMEN' HAVE DONE

Panama Fair Board Nominates Zella Nuttall, Jane Addams and Katherine Davis.

The Woman's Board of the Panama-Pacific Exposition has decided that the "three most noted American women" are Mrs. Zella Nuttall, Miss Jane Addams and Miss Katherine E. Davis, and have invited the three to be the guests of the exposition for a week. All three are distinguished for achievements in the fields of practical science.

Mrs. Nuttall, who lives at Cozyacan, Mexico, has won fame as an archeologist. Born at San Francisco, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy, she was educated in Paris, Germany, Italy and England, where she studied in the foremost colleges. Early she became interested in languages and antiquities and became a traveler. She became fascinated with Mexico and was soon recognized as an expert on its culture, writings and colonial history.

Famous as Archeologist, she was appointed special assistant of the Peabody Museum, in the department of American archeology and ethnology, and has been an honorary professor of archeology in the National Museum of Mexico since 1908. She belongs to several foreign and American scientific societies of the highest standing, and is the author of numerous papers, memoirs and a Mexican archeological code.

Katherine E. Davis is especially noted for her reformatory work among girls. She is at present Commissioner of Correction in New York City and is often quoted in sociological papers. Before Mayor Mitchell appointed her to her present office last year she was Superintendent of the New York State Reformatory for Women. She is a member of the Bureau of Social Hygiene.

Notable Work by Jane Addams. Jane Addams, one of the founders of Hull House in Chicago, is probably better known to the general public than either of the others. She was born at Cedarville, Ill., Sept. 6, 1860. She was graduated from Rockford College in 1881, after which she studied two years in Europe and another year in Philadelphia. She has received the Doctor of Laws degree from Yale, University of Wisconsin and Smith College.

Since 1889, when she and Miss Ellen Gates Starr founded Hull House, she has remained at the head of that institution. She was appointed inspector of streets and alleys in the neighborhood in which it is located and served in that capacity for three years. In 1899 she was elected president of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections. She has written voluminously on political and social reform, some of her most important works being "Democracy and Social Ethics," "New Ideals of Peace," "The Spirit of Youth and the City Streets," "Twenty Years at Hull House," and "A New Conscience and an Ancient Evil."

SUMMER PORTIERES

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist.

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach troubles possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyper-acidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full-blown feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated and inflamed by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and also the fermentation by taking a little warm or cold water immediately after eating. From one to two teaspoonfuls of this saturated magnesia which is doubtless the best and only really effective stomach and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will be in a healthy normal manner. Be sure to ask your druggist for the saturated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its powerfully valuable properties.—F. J. G.—ADV.

GERMAN INVASION OF U. S. POSSIBLE, GEN. GREENE SAYS

Millionaires Would Be Rounded
Up and Held for Ransom,
Volunteer Officer Avers.

THEORY IN NEW BOOK

Thinks, However, Nation Could Organize Mobile Force to Repel Invaders.

Major-General Francis Vinton Greene, U. S. V. of Buffalo, N. Y., in a book entitled "The Present Military Situation in the United States," just published by the Scribners, says that if the Germans ever attempt to cross the Atlantic they will succeed, and it is also his belief that unless adequate steps are taken to organize a mobile army of defense, they will land and have no great difficulty in capturing New York, after which they would round up the wealthy millionaires of Manhattan, if said millionaires waited around in the neighborhood, and hold them for a huge indemnity.

This is the plan which he thinks would be adopted: "A fleet of transports composed of ships not less than 10,000 nor more than 50,000 tons in size, with speed of not less than 15 knots, properly escorted by battleships and scout cruisers, and carrying about 15 divisions—say 24,000 infantry, with the proper complement of artillery, cavalry and engineers—and having on the decks of these ships an ample supply of aeroplanes, would sail from Bremerhaven, Cuxhaven, Hamburg, Gluckstadt, Emden and Kiel, and in about 10 days—longer, perhaps, if there was a great naval battle on the way—would arrive off the Long Island coast somewhere between Montauk Point and Coney Island. The ground would be reconnoitered by the aeroplanes, and then the torpedo boats, the scout cruiser, and in the background the battleships, would close in toward the shore and with their guns protect the landing.

March on New York. "Once landed, the march would begin for Long Island City, and unless we had a mobile army of at least equal strength, equally trained and equipped, and manned by equally skillful officers, this march would not take more than four days."

If the East River bridges should be destroyed, he says, the passage over to Manhattan would be delayed but not stopped. Once in Manhattan, discreet officers would be sent to find John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, J. P. Morgan, George F. Baker, Jacob H. Schiff, Frank A. Vanderlip, W. K. Vanderbilt, Henry C. Frick, Vincent Astor and Harry Payne Whitney, or whoever at the time of invasion occupied commanding positions in the world of affairs. They would be placed in close confinement until they signed a bond, conditioned upon the payment either by the City of New York or by the United States, or both, of an indemnity of not less than $5,000,000, which would be about twice the cost of our Civil War, exclusive of pensions.

This, Greene declares, is no more fantastic than the fate of Belgium. What happened to Belgium might happen to the United States. The only difference is that he sees in the situation of the two countries is that while the German troops were across the Belgian border in two days, the German transports could not reach Long Island in less than 10 or 12 days.

Thinks Army Could Be Repelled. He does not think that this will happen, because he thinks a mobile army of sufficient size to repel such an attempted invasion will be created, which would be mobilized as soon as aeroplanes scouts reported the approach of the enemy's ships, and attack the invading army as soon as it passed out of the range of the guns of its ships, defeat it and drive it back under the protection of the guns of the fleet, forcing upon the army the alternative of re-embarking or running the risk of losing the protection of the fleet, which would be compelled by rough weather to steam away from the coast.

The author does not think it certain that the present happy relations with England will continue, but he regards the possibility of war with Japan as in the highest degree remote.

W. C. M'BRIDE SAYS HIS GRAND PIANO IS SECOND HAND ONE

Wealthy Oil Man Thinks $50 High Enough to List $550 Instrument for Tax.

William C. McBride, 29 Washington terrace, reputed to be one of the wealthiest independent oil operators of America, spent the greater part of an hour trying to persuade the Board of Equalization that his Chickering grand piano, which he said he had bought secondhand for $50, should not be assessed at more than $50.

McBride listed his household furniture at $600 in his sworn return, and disputed the contention of Deputy Assessor Charles Gundlach that it was worth $10,000. The household silverware, listed at $100, he said, he had bought for $1000. In making a return of his personal property, McBride said, he considered only what the property would bring if he had to sell it and not what he paid for it. He could not recall what he had paid for pictures and bric-a-brac in his home. The board had notified McBride that it proposed to increase his personal assessment from $20,000 to $22,000. McBride said he held no bonds last year and the stocks he held were exempt from taxation. He declined to confirm newspaper reports that he had given $50,000 in bonds to his daughter Kathleen, when she was married last October to Lacy Marion Love. McBride was reported also to have made a similar marriage gift to another daughter, Mrs. Birch Oliver Mahaffey of Honolulu, in 1912. He is the donor of a $100,000 altar to the New Cathedral.

John H. Vette's Return.
John H. Vette, money lender, appeared before the board yesterday with his counsel, Jephtha D. Howe, on notice that his personal return of $17,000 might be increased to $67,000.

Howe told the board members that Vette had made an extravagant return in his affidavit and that in reality he had less than $17,000 of personal property and should be granted a reduction if the board made an itemized investigation of his possessions.

Howe said the furnishings in Vette's office were not worth more than $5, and that Vette had not put a stick of new furniture into his home at 21 Hawthorne boulevard in 14 years. Speaking of Vette's art collection in the house, which Deputy Assessor John H. Bohle had just described as an "elaborate mansion," Howe said: "Some people may think his pictures are valuable, but, although I am a poor man, I wouldn't have them."

"You have put him down here for two automobiles when he has only one," said Howe to Bohle.

"That is according to his sworn return," replied Bohle.

Howe turned to Vette and asked if he had two machines, and Vette replied he had an electric and a Ford.

"Well, there, you see, it's just as I said," said Howe to the board members. "He hasn't two automobiles; he has an electric coupe and a Ford."

In describing a safe in Vette's office, Howe said: "It's an old safe that I'll bet he got by foreclosing a $5 loan. It is so old that I could break into it myself."

"You should not betray yourself," said Benjamin H. Charles, one of the board, and the laugh was turned on Howe.

Howe contended that 25 per cent of Vette's loans on chattel mortgages were not collectable. He disclosed to the board that Vette held two deeds of trust on real estate last year, one of a face value of $15,000, but contended that they should not be assessed because one was in litigation and the other had been foreclosed.

The board will not announce its decisions until its final session Saturday.

BRITAIN DECLARES STEAMER FALABA WAS NOT ARMED

Insufficient Time Given for German Submarine for People to Escape

LONDON, April 8.—The Official Information Bureau issued a statement today saying that the British steamer Falaba, sunk March 28 by a German submarine with a loss of more than 100 lives, was not armed.

It is not true, the statement goes on, that sufficient time was given the passengers and the crew of this vessel to escape. The German submarine closed in on the Falaba, ascertained her name, signaled her to stop, and gave those on board five minutes to take to their boats. It would have been nothing less than a miracle, it is pointed out, if all the passengers had the crew of a good-sized liner been able to take to her boats within the time allowed.

"While some of the boats were still on their davits," the statement declares, "the submarine fired a torpedo at the Falaba at short range. This action made it absolutely certain that there must be great loss of life and it must have been committed knowingly with the intention of producing that result."

The conduct of all on board the Falaba appears to have been excellent. There was no avoidable delay in getting out the boats. It is possibly true, but quite irrelevant, that a trained man of war's crew of equal numbers might have managed to escape in similar circumstances with less loss of life. To accuse the Falaba's crew of negligence under the circumstances could not easily be paralleled.

BRYAN ASKS PARTY TO TAKE DRY SIDE WHEN IT IS ISSUE

Tells Iowa Democrats They Should Put Up Candidates Not Controlled by Wets.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Secretary Bryan has made public a letter he has written to L. W. Kennington, Democratic National Committeeman from Iowa, expressing the hope that the Democrats of Iowa would take a stand for prohibition and vote against officials who could be controlled by the liquor interests.

In a statement given out with the letter, Bryan said he hoped to see the Democratic party take the prohibition side wherever the question was raised, and that if the liquor interests insisted upon making an issue in the selection of a national committeeman, the people opposed to the liquor traffic could not afford to ignore it.

"I do not know to what extent the liquor question will be an issue in the coming year," he added. "At the present time it does not seem probable that it will find a place in the platform of either the Democratic or the Republican party, but there is no reason why the national committeemen should not represent the sentiment of the party on this subject as on other subjects."

Kennington had written Bryan that his name was being used in behalf of a candidate for the National Committee.

Text of Bryan's Letter.

In his letter Bryan said: "The Legislature of Iowa has voted statutory prohibition, and also has submitted to the people a prohibition amendment to the constitution. It becomes necessary, therefore, for the voters of Iowa to act upon the liquor question, both in choosing another Legislature and voting upon the amendment submitted. The Democratic party of Iowa, constituting a considerable portion of the voting population, must take action upon this subject both in the nomination and election of Legislators, and also directly, as they vote upon the prohibition amendment."

"I take it for granted that the Democratic party will act upon the subject in its State and local conventions and even if it does not, the individual action taken by the members of the organization will, to a greater or less extent, commit the party on this subject and thus affect the party's strength in the State."

"It is proper that the National Committeemen should represent the attitude of the party on this question; in fact, the liquor interests have already ruled out one good man because he is 'dry.' The only way in which the sentiment of the party can be made evident in advance of a convention or an election is for each person to vote as he thinks, if he acts as an individual, or, as his constituents think, if he acts as a representative."

"The liquor question is a moral question and our party's hope of success in the State of Iowa for years to come will in my judgment, depend upon the manner in which it meets this question and the position it takes upon it."

"If I were a citizen of Iowa I would make my opinion on the subject manifest by casting whatever influence I had in favor of the selection of officials who would not be controlled by, or under obligations to, the liquor interest, but would be positively and definitely committed to the home as against the saloon."

"Liquor Interests in Conspiracy." "The brewer, the distiller and the saloon keeper are in conspiracy against all that is pure in society, against all that is sacred in the family—against all that is good in industry and desirable in Government. I do not mean to say that every brewer, every distiller or every saloon keeper is consciously conspiring, but the business in which these men are engaged is the enemy of progress and civilization and they are not in position to oppose the influences that dominate it. Those who represent the liquor interests are conscienceless in their methods; they debauch the individuals through whom they act, and any party to which they dictate. The Democratic party can only hope for success when it gives expression to high ideals and makes itself the champion of the noblest principles and the best policies."

"Whenever a moral question is raised, therefore, there is but one side to it, unless the party is willing to sell its soul for a support which cannot be more than temporary and which cannot be accepted even temporarily without the forfeiture of public respect."

"It does not matter much what particular individual is chosen as national committeeman, but it matters a great deal whether he stands on the moral or immoral side of the line that separates the forces that are soon to engage in political battle in Iowa. It would be far better to take an obscure man who is right on the liquor question than a well-known man who is wrong on the liquor question, for an unknown man ceases to be unknown when he becomes the exponent of a righteous cause—he borrows strength from his cause; whereas individual strength and personal influence dwindle into nothingness under the blight of an unholy alliance with an immoral cause."

"If, therefore, anybody asks you my opinion, you may say that in any contest between a wet and a dry candidate for national committeeman I am for the dry candidate and that I shall be greatly disappointed if the Democratic party in Iowa does not throw the weight of its influence against the liquor interests and all that they stand for or desire."

In giving out the text of this letter to Committeeman Kennington, Secretary Bryan issued this supplementary statement:

"The letter of Committeeman Kennington explains the reason why I was urged by one of our candidates that I favored his selection. When this was brought to my attention I felt that if my opinion was desired it ought to be given to all, and that the reasons for that opinion should be stated so that the Democrats of Iowa would know what weight, if any, to give to it."

"The prohibition question is an issue in Iowa, and this fact is so clearly understood by the liquor forces that one of the leaders of the wet element of the Democratic party in Iowa objected to a very excellent man on the ground that he belonged to the drys."

"If the liquor interests insist upon making the question an issue in the selection of a national committeeman, those opposed to the liquor traffic cannot well ignore the issue. As a matter of fact, the liquor question now being before the people of Iowa, it could not be ignored in the selection of party officials, no matter which side desired to ignore it."

"Prohibition is not an issue in all the states, but wherever it is an issue I hope to see the Democratic party take the prohibition side. It cannot ally itself with liquor interests without losing its moral standing, and the moral standing of a party is the thing that gives it permanent strength. A surrender to vice or immorality seldom gives even a temporary advantage to a party, but even if temporary advantage could be secured by such a course, it would be at the expense of the permanent welfare of the party. It is not only right for a party to take the moral side of a question, but it pays to do so."

DENIES GERMAN PAID FOR 'APPEAL' TO STOP MUNITIONS

Former Mule Driver Hammerling Says He Paid $100,000 for Nation-Wide "Ad."

REFUSES AN EXPLANATION

Editors Say He Asked to Use Their Names, but They Didn't Pay.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Julius M. Hammerling, former union leader of Wilkes-Barre, advertising agent and publicity expert, declared yesterday:

That he personally paid the more than $100,000 which it cost to publish on Monday in 200 papers the page advertisement headed "An Appeal to the American People."

That he has $200,000 or $300,000 and can afford such an expenditure.

That not one cent of German money is behind his publicity campaign.

That he will sign away his entire fortune and go back to the coal mines whence he sprang to opulence if anyone can disprove his statement.

Hammerling hotly denied that any newspaper had the right to attempt to clear up the mystery surrounding the publication of the "Appeal" to the American People to stop manufacturing munitions of war. He said newspapers did not represent the people, and consequently he would answer no questions, but he added that if the newspapers would produce the people en masse before the Woodworth Building he would satisfy their curiosity.

Offered by an Agency.
The page advertisement was offered to the leading newspapers of New York City, through the John Lee Advertising Agency of Chicago. About $12,000 was paid to publish it in this city. The "Appeal" carries the signatures of publishers of 431 newspapers published in foreign languages—10 Bohemian, 2 Bulgarian, 5 Chinese, 7 Croatian, 12 Finnish, 2 Flemish, 6 French, 9 Greek, 16 Hollandish, 27 Hungarian, 112 Italian, 1 Japanese, 49 Jewish, 14 Korean, 2 Lettish, 10 Lithuanian, 14 Danish-Norwegian, 4 Polish, 4 Portuguese, 3 Rumanian, 8 Russian, 9 Ruthenian, 2 Serbian, 9 Slovak, 5 Slovenic, 13 Spanish, 34 Swedish and 10 Syrian.

The "Appeal" contains the following statement:
"The cost of this advertisement has been voluntarily given in the shape of small contributions by our people, who are actuated by a sense of humanity and justice and a patriotic desire not to have this peace-loving nation directly or indirectly the cause of further loss of life or destruction of property."

The editors with whom the Post-Dispatch communicated yesterday who signed the appeal, and some who did not, declared they had not been asked to contribute to the fund, nor had they done so. They could throw no light on the source of the contributions and were quite interested in Hammerling's statement that he had paid the bill.

A mimeographed typewritten form was sent to the newspapers published in foreign languages in the United States. The editor of the Courier des Etats-Unis, the French daily of New York, showed yesterday the original blank form of inquiry which he said he received from Mr. Hammerling. It reads:

"We the publishers of the _____ published in the _____ State of _____ hereby authorize you to sign our names to an appeal to the American people, industries and workmen, not to manufacture, sell or ship powder, shrapnel or shot of any kind or description to any of the warring nations in Europe or Japan."

"We authorize you to act in any capacity in our behalf in any way that will help to bring about an end to manufacturing powder or shot destined to destroy our brothers and humanity in general."

Mr. I. H. Samper, publisher of the Courier, altered the form to read as a flat refusal and further to read:

"We authorize you to act in any capacity in our behalf in any way that will help to bring about complete annihilation of the German and Austrian armies or help to manufacture powder or shot destined to destroy them, their brothers and Teutonic inhumanity in general."

Hammerling is an Austrian he said yesterday. He spoke proudly of his up-coming from a mule driver at the age of 10 in a Pennsylvania colliery. A month ago he was married in the chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, by Cardinal Farley to Countess Sophie von Bressnicka.

High in Labor Councils.
Hammerling's first appearance in the national spotlight was in 1902, when he was recognized as the intermediary between the Roosevelt administration and the striking coal miners. He had educated himself and risen in union labor councils to a leadership next, perhaps, to John Mitchell, although he was known as editor of the miners' publications.

tion of Foreign Newspapers, but they never heard of their association. They knew it was a New York State corporation, capitalised at $100,000, and were informed that Hammerling held 81 per cent of the stock. Some shares were apportioned among newspaper publishers who joined, but several years ago, it was said yesterday, Hammerling bought back the outstanding stock.

JOSEPH LINDON SMITH HERE Has Been in Egypt.

Stage Director of Masque of St. Louis. Joseph Lindon Smith of Boston, a painter, who was stage director of the Masque of St. Louis, produced in Forest Park, last May, in connection with the Pageant, was in St. Louis today for the first time since the final night of the Pageant and Masque, when he was called away by illness in his family.

Smith returned within the last month from Egypt, where he went last fall to execute some commissions in painting. He found Cairo empty of tourists and full of soldiers, and he said he had seen the pyramid of Cheops so covered with khaki-clad Australians that it appeared to be a pile of soldiers and not of stones. At Luxor and other places usually frequented by tourists, there was stagnation. In Italy, the people were lamenting the absence of Americans with money to spend.

In his talks on "Pageantry," delivered since his return before several societies in Boston, Smith has told of the Pageant and Masque here, and he is to speak on this subject in Detroit, Washington and Baltimore.

Wets, Not Dry, Win in Superior, Wis. SUPERIOR, Wis., April 8.—After opening several additional voting machines here this evening, the vote on no license was changed to 15 in favor of license, instead of 51 against. A contest of the vote is predicted, either way.

FIGHTS FOR TWO COUNTRIES Austrian Serves First for Germany, Then for Native Land.

VIENNA, April 8.—George Leitner, a young Austrian from Zell am See, in Tyrol, has had the perhaps unique experience of serving during this war in both the German and Austrian armies, first as a German soldier and then as an Austrian.

in Germany, and enlisted, and was sent to the west front, where he eventually received the Iron Cross. As Austria began calling out her various classes of troops Leitner's name finally was reached, and a notification was sent him which was received by his father, who sent him word that he was called on for service in Austria. He was mustered out of the German ranks and in due time mustered in the Austrian army, where he now is.

WILLIAM T. DANIEL HURT WHEN TRAIN HITS HIS AUTO

Chief Electrician for Laclede Gas Light Co. Suffers a Broken Leg and Bruises.

William T. Daniel, 38 years old, 4026 Lexington avenue, chief electrician for the Laclede Gas Light Co., was run down in his automobile by a Wabash train at Mound and Main streets, about 8 o'clock last night. He is at St. Mary's Infirmary with a broken leg and painful bruises.

When his machine in front of a fast passenger train. His wife said afterwards that he was in the habit of leaving the office at 6 p. m. and usually timed his departure by the arrival of the train. It was a few minutes late yesterday, but he thought it had already passed.

The train was stopped and Daniel was taken in it to Union Station, and then sent to the infirmary in an ambulance. The auto was wrecked. Daniel said he did not hear the train and did not know it was near.

PLACES BLAME ON CITY FOR INCREASE IN TUBERCULOSIS

Health Commissioner Says It Has Not Supplied Funds for Prevention Work.

Starkloff Confirms Statement That Death Rate From Disease Is High Here.

Health Commissioner Starkloff, in a talk with a Post-Dispatch reporter today, confirmed the statement of the St. Louis Society for the Relief and Prevention of Tuberculosis that St. Louis has a larger proportion of tuberculosis deaths than other American cities of its rank, and that the rate here is on the increase, while it is decreasing elsewhere.

Dr. Starkloff said that this state of affairs could have been prevented if the city had spent a proper amount for the relief and prevention work now left to private charity, and that the tuberculosis death rate in future could be materially reduced if the city government would support this work.

The Anti-Tuberculosis Society made its statements about the death rate in a letter which it has sent out soliciting funds. It stated that St. Louis had the highest death rate from tuberculosis among the six leading American cities; that New York had the lowest rate; that one out of every nine funerals in St. Louis was that of a tuberculosis victim; that nearly three-fourths of the deaths from contagious diseases here for 10 years had been from tuberculosis; that 13 per cent of all deaths here in 1914 were from this cause; that Pittsburgh, the smokiest city, had a much lower rate than St. Louis, and that the rate is increasing here and decreasing in other cities.

Based Upon Official Figures.
These statements were so startling that a question was raised as to their accuracy, but A. W. Jones Jr., secretary of the society, went over the different assertions with a reporter and showed, in an article printed in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, that they were borne out by Health Department figures.

"The official figures bear out the society's assertions," said Dr. Starkloff. "The society is also correct, in my opinion, in saying that the present condition here could have been prevented and can be remedied by measures which have been tried and have succeeded in other cities. The most important of these measures is the maintenance of a corps of visiting nurses."

"The Health Department has requested appropriations for visiting nurses, but these appropriations have been stricken out of the municipal budget year after year. We haven't a visiting nurse on the department staff, and the few nurses whom the Anti-Tuberculosis Society has been able to employ have had their hands full with relief work, and have had no chance to do preventive work."

"Public health is a purchasable commodity in this matter of tuberculosis just as in other respects. There is no reason why the same results that have been obtained by the expenditure of city funds in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and 11 other large American cities, should not be successful here. The climate of St. Louis is not unfavorable. Patients can get well here just as surely as they can anywhere else."

"The work of a corps of visiting nurses is educational and preventive. The nurses give direct assistance and teach the infected person how to care for himself, not only how to avoid infecting others, but how to avoid infecting himself, as so many tuberculosis patients do, who might be cured but for the fact that they go on infecting new tracts in their lungs. If the Health Department had such an organization of nurses we could steadily reduce the death rate from tuberculosis, instead of seeing it rise, as at present."

Dr. L. C. Boiniere of 3544 Washington avenue, chief of staff of Mount St. Rose Hospital for tuberculosis patients, said the official figures showed conclusively that the battle against tuberculosis should no longer be left to privately financed organizations, but should be taken up by the city government. While endorsing the visiting nurse plan, he thinks tuberculosis hospitals the chief need in a campaign against the disease.

"The record of 1500 tuberculosis deaths in 1914," said Dr. Boiniere, "means an economic loss of $450,000 to the community, on the basis of the common estimate that the life of the average individual is worth $3000 to the city. Surely the city can afford to spend the money needed to fight this disease. The problem is too big to be handled adequately by a private organization."

"The low death rate from tuberculosis in New York is directly due to the work of Dr. Biggs, whose efforts resulted in the building of a $3,000,000 municipal hospital for tuberculosis patients, on Staten Island, Chicago, which a few years ago had only 200 beds available for tuberculosis patients, passed a law setting aside a percentage of the tax rate for anti-tuberculosis work. In this manner a municipal hospital with 3300 beds has been provided."

"At Mount St. Rose Hospital we care for 40 charity patients, all from St. Louis. We have to turn away two to five persons daily who apply for this charity treatment."

"St. Louis' climate is much more favorable for tuberculosis patients than the climate of New York or Boston, which have vastly reduced their deaths from this cause by wise expenditures of municipal funds for the purpose."

MAN BADLY HURT IN MYSTERIOUS AUTO COLLISION

Driver of One Car Says Woman Also Was Injured—Police Hold No One.

Harry Donner, 23 years old, a piano tuner of 6235 Chatham street, is in a critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis. He was injured at 2 o'clock this morning when an automobile driven by a man who afterward gave his name as M. B. Lemcke collided with the automobile of Theodore La Valle on the Collinsville road near Myer's roadhouse, three miles north of East St. Louis.

Lemcke was questioned by two East St. Louis policemen, but his address was not taken, and he was not detained. La Valle was arrested at Third street and Washington avenue at 6 o'clock by a policeman who noticed the damaged condition of his automobile. He was taken to the Central Police Station. The East Side police were called up. They said they had a complete report of the accident and La Valle was released, without his address being taken. The East St. Louis police do not know where La Valle lives.

Woman Reported Hurt.
La Valle told the St. Louis police that a man and woman were injured in the collision and that he had taken both to St. Mary's Hospital. No woman was taken to the hospital.

Neither Lemcke nor La Valle is in the St. Louis directory. The license number of the machine driven by Lemcke was 15817, according to the East St. Louis police. The automobile license record at the Police Headquarters shows that this license was issued to J. O. Chambers of 3130 Forest avenue, St. Louis. The number on La Valle's car was 17491. The police record shows this license to have been issued to N. M. Freling, 701 Cypress avenue, Kansas City.

Two policemen were hailed by Lemcke in East St. Louis at 2:30 this morning. He asked the way to the hospital. They took his name only. There were seven persons in the automobile.

Dr. H. J. DeHaan, who was called to attend Donner, found that his left side and left hip and groin were terribly torn and that he had severe internal injuries. Donner told the doctor that he was being driven by La Valle in a service car. They had stopped on the road and were ready to start again. Donner cranked the car and was standing on the running board when a large automobile traveling at high speed crashed into them. He knew no more until he found himself in the hospital. Donner said an actor appearing at a St. Louis theater was in the car with him. He did not reveal the actor's name.

Canadian Rails.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Your editorial in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, regarding the importation of Canadian rails, was read with much interest. Although some of the facts stated are not in accordance with actual conditions, as, for example, American mills are making every effort towards securing the best possible rail, and are readily submitting to the "nick and break" test, there are other facts which evidently have entirely escaped your attention.

One is that the Algoma company is actually engaged in "dumping" rails into this country, and has been protected by the Canadian Government, not only by a tariff, but also by an anti-dumping clause which prevents American manufacturers from selling in that country at less than the price obtained in this. Such dumping on the part of the Algoma mills meets with criticism in this country.

Furthermore, the Algoma company has sold rails to American railroads with lines both in Canada and the United States, and for rails going into Canadian track they charged a much higher price, under their tariff and anti-dumping law, than charged the same companies for rails used in their tracks in the United States.

Without believing in a high tariff, it certainly seems that this is unfair to the American manufacturer and laborer; and with this added information before you, would like through another one of your editorials to see your views on the condition that really works a hardship to both manufacturer and laborer.

B. S. MANN.

Forest Park Driveways.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
What ails Dwight F. Davis? After achieving a brilliant record as Park Commissioner, he is allowing that record to be effaced from the minds of thousands of St. Louisans, including myself, by permitting the deterioration of the roads in Forest Park to the point that life in a motor car traveling there is not only uncomfortable but also unsafe. Personally, I would rather ride on the most eccentric scenic railway than over those bumps. A score of others have expressed to me the same opinion of the park roads.

AUTOIST.

Deaf Man Needs Employment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Being a constant daily reader of your valuable paper, will you allow me to express myself regarding a certain phrase of the employment situation? Recently I've read where a man claims he could have a job on a farm with his wife if he had the usual employment fee of $2. Now I am an educated man, intelligent, of 40, have a wife and two perfectly good arms and legs and willing to work and want it and have paid the two dollars, but am turned down because I am a speaking man but deaf. My only crime being deafness. I could have gotten a job at a certain hotel running a dishwashing machine, at $25 monthly and meals, which anybody could do and which I've done before, but it was the usually discouraging answer, "I'm sorry, but can't use you over your hearing."

Now I think there are really some good, sympathetic, Christian people in the city who may see this and give me work at something, as I have a wife and baby and hardly know what to do, as it's not my fault I'm deaf and it's the only thing preventing me getting work and is certainly discouraging.

ALBERT BLOOM, 1144 N. Broadway, City.

A $20 Saving in Nebraska.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Nebraska still compels little children to have their cow pus injected into their clean blood before being admitted to the public schools, and allows private physicians to take a fee for injecting it; but Nebraska's Legislature has killed the bill proposing to require men to undergo a physical examination, and pay the doctors a $20 fee for it, before obtaining license to practice.

I suppose the Nebraska lawmakers, while inclined to be liberal to the medical profession, felt they had to draw the line somewhere.

Girls' Club Wants Tennis Court Site.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A club of young ladies from the Y. W. C. A. is very anxious to have a tennis court for the summer, and I thought that maybe there would be someone among your many readers who has a vacant lot which they would allow us to fix up and use as a court this summer.

If anyone will do this they will be doing a deed that will give many happy hours to a large number of girls who will surely appreciate the kindness.

Anyone desiring to help us please write to the Post-Dispatch. I will be looking for their answer.

A $600,115 PROFIT AT STILLWATER.

Senator Hawkins' testimony that within the last three weeks convicts were still being tortured by being hung up in the rings at Jefferson City furnishes further reason for exercising care in the selection of the new Superintendent of Prison Industries. Blundering in the appointment would leave small hope for humane, rational policies during two more years.

The Post-Dispatch's seasonable and instructive article on the prison system at Stillwater, Minn., carries with it a pointed criticism of incapacity and brutality at the Missouri Penitentiary.

The substitution of the State account plan for the contract plan was begun by Minnesota nearly twenty-five years ago. The first industry was one of those binder twine plants now common to many prisons, but unusual energy and ability, especially in seeking markets, have developed a business of remarkable dimensions. A second industry introduced eight years ago—the manufacture of farm tools and machinery—was a natural consequence of the first.

The last of the long-term contracts for the labor of Minnesota convicts has expired. All the prison inmates are now employees of the State instead of selfish, grasping contractors. From the sale of the things made by these convicts during the last two years, $35,000 was paid the convict workers themselves at the rate of from 10 to 50 cents a day, $117,077 was paid for food and maintenance expenses and $600,115 was turned over to the State authorities as the net profit made on their labor.

What Minnesota has done Missouri can do with less difficulty. Minnesota was a pioneer State in creating tolerable conditions of convict employment. Her experience and that of other states which have addressed themselves with energy and intelligence to the same problem will be available for guidance in working out plans at Jefferson City.

But simple as the task will be in competent hands, it cannot be carried out successfully by prison officials who hold their jobs on real or fancied political service rather than on some few elementary qualifications for the work. The men who make the improvement Missourians are demanding must be men of some mental assets. They must at least have the business ability that would be adequate to a county seat store. They must be men of average intelligence, force of character and initiative.

THE PENALTY OF BAD SERVICE.

Let us not overlook the influence on the election of the antics of the Democratic majority in the late House of Delegates.

John R. McCarthy and his associates in the A. & M. combine on the Democratic ticket, brought up the rear in a bad race. The Republican members of the combine ran behind their ticket. The whole Democratic ticket suffered from the loss of public confidence caused by the conduct of the Democratic House majority.

Betrayal of public to private interests and defiance of sound public opinion invariably bring penalties.

A SCHOOL BOARD PROTEST.

Without a place on the ticket Philip C. Scanlan, recommended by the Municipal Voters League for the School Board as a protest against partisan control of the schools, got 17,835 votes.

This is a fair indication of the sentiment of voters on the menace of a partisan School Board. When the issue is fairly presented in practical form to the voters there is no doubt what the verdict will be. Nor is there any doubt what will happen to the Republican party if it misuses its power in the board.

FANS PREFER THE REAL THING.

The Right Reverend William Sunday has had a slump at Paterson, N. J., where the crowds are neither turning out nor selling out as was hoped, and predicted. At his opening matinee he played to a half-empty grandstand, and the night crowd far from filled it. The contribution totaled but $211. (Many people walked out during the delivery.)

That the falling off was no fault of the reverend and his team we gather from the news wires. Among the ushers and the singers and the rest of the workers the order had gone after the matinee:

"A little more pep! Ginger the crowd up! Start the clapping yourselves and get things going!"

Early himself set the example by putting forth his very best efforts. He threw himself face down on his platform and yelled over the edge of it, in illustration of how the Lord called a certain famous evangelist to start a revival in Wales. His apus around, dervish fashion, and driving home his points with an overhand pitching motion, went through as much work as an active mountaineer working a full nine-inning game.

We are inclined to lay the disappointment to the good weather and the opening of the outdoor baseball season. Healthy fans have no time for an indoor imitation while the real thing is taking place on a diamond.

REPRESENTATIVE.

It can at any rate be said of St. Louis' first one-chamber Assembly that its membership is fairly representative of all sorts and conditions of the people, tested by any other than the political yardstick, and that, being solidly Republican, it is bound not only by platform pledges, but by considerations of party welfare, to carry forward the progressive policies which now engage St. Louis' ambition.

THE PULLMAN COMPANY'S MEANNESS.
Was an official inquiry into the service methods of the Pullman company really needed? The whole traveling public is an investigating committee of many millions on those methods and has been carrying on its inquiry for years.

Tom Crenshaw, a Pullman porter, of 21 years' service, who has a run out of Chicago down into St. Louis territory, testified that he receives $42 a month from the company and $75 a month in tips. The $42 being inadequate, what does Tom do when members of the American Anti-Tipping Society predominate on his car and the $75 shrinks or disappears entirely? The Tom Crenshaws are numerous. The temptation to practice imposition on the public is made too strong. Pullman conductors, lacking the porter's harvest of quarters, confess that they "knock down" on fares to pay expenses when away from home.

The meanness of the company in forcing an unusually efficient and worthy class of employees into a humiliating position with respect to the public has done more than any other agency in spreading the tipping practice in America, where it was once exceptional, but where it has now reached inordinate bounds. It is a responsibility for which so wealthy a company should be stigmatized.

Pullman train employees ought to be unionized. There is no more inviting field for organized labor.

A REPUBLICAN OPPORTUNITY.

The Republican party has an excellent opportunity to square itself with the people on the issue of a bipartisan Board of Education.

The resignation of two Republican members of the board and the appointment of two good Democrats to their places would not only be a fine political stroke, but it would be an excellent public service.

The local Republican party has won a sweeping victory. It can add to its prestige and greatly strengthen public confidence in its sincerity and good purpose by deferring to the manifest desire of the people to protect the public school system from partisan control. The party would gain in public good will far more than it would lose in two School Board members. By taking the lead in this matter Mayor Kiel can add much to the good opinion he has gained.

PRESIDENTIAL PERQUISITES.

Gen. Grant, in his heyday, never received anything as fine as the pass to all games of the National League, engraved on silver in the form of a watch fob, which President Gilmore has presented to President Wilson. Is it any wonder that smart American boys aspire to be President of the United States?

A SAVING ON RAILROAD STEEL.

Greatly reduced equipment purchases by railroads during many months seriously affected the steel mills of the country. After, however, an increase in freight rates and certain passenger rates was authorized, one of the first orders placed was given to the Algoma plant of Canada.

Why our own mills, with many of their employees working only part time, lost this order, which called for the manufacture of thousands of tons of steel rails for the Illinois Central, is a question of considerable public interest.

The Railway Age, which may be supposed to have special facilities for ascertaining the reason, says the American mills would not subject their products to quality tests and held out for the trust rate of $28 a ton.

A Post-Dispatch correspondent writes that the Algoma concern is "dumping" rails into this country; that even when it sells to international roads, it makes a lower charge for rails laid on this side of the line than for those laid on the other; that Canada protects itself from retaliation of the same form by an anti-dumping law preventing foreigners from selling in Canada at lower prices than they charge at home. He adds:

Without believing in a high tariff, it certainly seems that this is unfair to the American manufacturer and laborer; and with this added information before you, would like through another one of your editorials to see your view on the condition that really works a hardship to both manufacturer and laborer.

A hardship of vastly greater proportions is that resulting from the Steel Trust's continuous exaction from the railroads of an excessive fixed price, which is ultimately passed on to the whole public in carrying charges.

For every $1 worth the Algoma company has sold abroad at less than home prices the Steel Trust probably has sold $10,000 worth. Can we complain justly if we suffer in occasional instances from a practice which we ourselves follow persistently? We shall see if the Canadians enjoy as much as we do paying more than foreigners do for home-made goods. With domestic competition restored, an anti-dumping law of Canada's pattern might at times be helpful, but under existing conditions the consumer probably would favor such a law with its terms reversed—a law preventing sales at home for more than those abroad.

LIVING UP TO ADMIRAL FISKE.

If some of the things Congressman Gardner says about our army and navy are true—most of them are not true—changes in high places seem to be needed. Rear Admiral Fiske's resignation may be for the good of the service rather than otherwise.

Anyway, the resignation is not occasioning the dismay it evidently was designed to occasion. It is conceivable that a navy that has included a Farragut, a Porter, a Foote, a Dewey, a Sampson and a Schley within its personnel of a generation may survive the loss of a Fiske.

A COURT WITHOUT LAWYERS.

Louis Aloe brilliantly suggests, among other things, that the new Board of Aldermen establish a night court without lawyers for poor people who would like to be tried as soon as they are arrested.

This would be humane, but it would rob justice of much of its terror. Having to employ a lawyer to defend one, and putting one's self in his power, constitute the main punitive feature of the existing system—which afflicts innocent and guilty alike. To defend one's self from one's own lawyer—there's the rub.

On the principle that a short horse is soon curried, it might be supposed that a poor man who couldn't pay a lawyer would be promptly disposed of, but not so. Justice is delayed and the poor man left in jail on the chance that relatives will die and leave him some money. A self-starting court, operating automatically and unretarded by lawyers would appeal not only to the poor but the rich as well. In fact the only objection that anybody has ever raised against courts would be removed.

And this being the case, why have only one lawless court operating at night? Why not have day courts—why not have all courts run on the same simple plan?

TELLING IT TO THE TURKS.

In every well-organized society there is an element which will believe anything it is told. This is a great convenience to everyone else, and also adds to the gaiety of nations. We have had at different times the marines and the Danes, and are now apparently blessed with the Turks. Telling it to the Turks seems to be the principal humor of the war. From the Literary Digest, which has had some war news translated from the Turkish press, we get the following exciting news with respect to the Kaiser, found in the Constantinople Servet-i-Funoun, or, as we say, the Serve-It-Out-Hot:

His Islamic Majesty Wilhelm II has made his state entry into the conquered French capital. In celebration of the victory over Paris, his Majesty made a speech from the throne in the former French Chamber of Deputies. After its conclusion he offered the imperial hand to be kissed by the French ex-Deputies, who were deeply touched by this magnanimity.

Some war news, as our own purists say. Nor is this all of the Kaiser. He is to visit Turkey, as we learn from the Hanumlar Gazetissid, or, in our tongue, the Ho-Hum Gazette:

The harem of his Islamic Majesty Wilhelm II, the principal officers of the harem, and the general staff are expected in Constantinople early this spring. Ten powerful captured British dreadnoughts will escort the Imperial harem.

Nor do these quite reveal the extent to which the Turks have been taken in. From the Constantinople Hkam, which seems to be a kind of a Hearst paper over there, we have this rather adequate panorama of the whole campaign:

The lands near the Suez Canal inundated by the English are now all occupied by Ottoman soldiers. The Indian troops, on whom the English depended for the defense of the Canal, displayed a tremendous zeal—but in opposition to the English; and even the Suez company's boats were removed from the canal. Military experts laugh at the futile plans of the English and say that nothing will avail against the Ottoman forces. They very well know that before the Turks is victory and behind them death. When the news of the success at the Suez Canal of our Army of Salvation reached Aleppo the schools were all given a holiday and the people celebrated the victory.

Tell it to the Turks.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

HEALTH HINTS.

G. F. E.—Bone enlargement, surgery. Eyes cannot be reduced except in connection with one form of goiter. Astringent application for pores.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.—We find no record of chromium sulphate as an internal remedy. It is used as a caustic for growths on the skin and mucous membrane.

READER.—Olive oil laxative, more or less fattening. Many take areas of tartar or sulphur and molasses "for the blood." Some physicians say that there is no blood purifier. Cream of tartar without sulphur, teaspoonful before breakfast. With sulphur it may be taken morning or night or both, according to the effect shown. Proportions, 1 part cream of tartar to 2 of sulphur. Cream of tartar is shamefully adulterated.

H. J.—Symptoms of sugar diabetes: Frequent micturition, pain in kidney region, constant thirst, tongue beefy red and cracked, appetite variable, occasional vomiting, dyspeptic symptoms, constipation, sometimes diarrhea, weakness, languor, emaciation, harsh, dry skin, often itchy, worn expression, decline in firmness of character and moral tone, irritability, heart action weak.

J. C. M.—Cause of excessive perspiration all over body is unknown. Try drinking nothing. Practice says: "If the sweating is generalized, a careful search should be made for a cause. The underlying systematic cause and the internal treatment should be governed accordingly. Atrophic sulphur, gr. 120-150, twice daily, ergot in pill solution, ascorbic acid, 1-2, galeic acid, quinine, mineral tonic, and sulphur, 3 grains twice daily, have been highly recommended for this condition. Local treatment, however, is more efficacious. The parts should be cleaned and immediately dried and then dusted with some one of the numerous dusting powders. The following is a valuable powder: Acid salicylic, gr. 10, zinc oxide, 10, or Peruvian balsam, 10, either diluted or full strength. Aristo as a dusting powder is very satisfactory.

M. H. M.—Vanderbilt clinic says: "At the end of six months breast-fed babies weigh more than those artificially fed, but after that the artificially fed gain much more rapidly. More than 90 percent of babies do well on simple dilutions of whole milk, slightly sweetened. Those in charge of the clinic are convinced that lime water, barley or oatmeal water or top milk mixtures are useless except in exceptional cases. In feeding healthy babies they usually begin by diluting the milk with one-third its volume of water. The amount given is increased by one ounce every four weeks and the strength of the mixture is increased as the condition of the child may indicate. Infants can usually take whole milk when they are from six and one-half to seven months old. No baby should receive more than a quart of milk a day until it is a year old. When it stops gaining weight on that quantity of milk substituted for part of the sugar, and later cereals in the form of gruels are added. At nine months the milk is ready for broths and swaback and sometimes for finely mashed vegetables. It is best to use sugar in the form of a dextrose maltose preparation, a level teaspoonful to every 10 ounces of milk and water, but it should not be given to babies less than 3 months old, to those with a tendency to constipation or to vomiting."

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

M. R. H.—Dry heat and gas kill ferns. A writer on potted plants says: "Through a hole in the bottom of the flower pot insert a sponge in a way to make a part of it project on either side. It is better that the hole be made slightly larger than the ordinary that a larger sponge may be used. Set the pot in a jar, or bowl, of some sort, partly filled with water in such a way that the bottom of the pot does not touch the bowl and the sponge is immersed in the water. The water in the jar is that only so much water soaks up the sponge and into the soil as is needed by the plant. No other watering should be given."

IGNORA.—Ask Clerk of Court how order of distribution was made; this would show names of legatees and amounts. We advise waiting a reasonable time, and if no answer is received, make an engagement an attorney. Have you made sure you are entitled to any division in the estate?

READER.—Note is good for 10 years after maturity, and a payment on account revives it. Note dated Nov. 2, 1907, payable 3 years after date, is outlived Nov. 2, 1910, subject to being revived by partial payment. The deed of trust is good as long as the note remains a valid obligation.

RAY.—As to who would be appointed guardian of the insane person depending upon court; you can make the suggestion to your attorney and the court may act favorably on the matter. If the insane person made a will prior to insanity it will hold good, but after being declared such she could not make a valid one. If she left a valid will cutting off grandchildren, well and good, but if not, they (grandchildren) would take parent's share.

F. A.—In a mortgage there are but two parties, mortgagee and mortgagor; in event of default, court action is necessary to foreclose. A deed of trust has 3 parties: the mortgagor as first party, trustee second party and cestui qui trust or lender third party. In event of default trustee, at the request of lender or holder of notes, forecloses and causes deed to purchase, being vested with the legal title. The latter is about all that is in use now.

E. H. S.—The first account of the Johnson-Wildard fight published in the late editions of the Post-Dispatch, Monday, were furnished by news association; the later editions contained the story of a Post-Dispatch writer at the ring side. Any discrepancies between the two were probably due to the generally accepted fact that no two views of an event exactly coincide.

Wrong Conclusions

The story of a little shop girl whose intuitive faculties, for once, go strangely awry.

By Maud Beasley.

LITTLE HOIT, at the perfumery counter of the 25 and 50 cent store, looked up Maggie Parsons, her neighbor behind the toilet articles. "Gee! That's the third time old Simmonds has spoken to me this morning," she remarked.

"He must be getting stuck on you, Lizzie," replied her friend.

Simmonds, the owner of the chain of stores, was a man about 60 years of age. He had a fringe of white whiskers under his chin, he was not particularly well groomed or spruce; in short, he was not in the least the kind of an elderly gentleman who would attract the affections of a pretty girl of 20.

Lizzie had obtained her position the first day she looked for one. She had come up from the country, and when she had saved up the price of a trousseau—a really elegant one—she meant to let George Robbins, at present employed in their home town as manager of a little local store, lead her to the altar.

Simmonds certainly appeared interested in Lizzie. Before the girl had been in the store a month he had already contrived to have her summoned to his private office at least a dozen times.

"How would you like to act as my stenographer, Miss Hoit?" he inquired upon the last of these occasions.

"I don't know much about stenography," admitted Lizzie. "But I could learn, I suppose," she added, thinking of the increased salary and the improved trousseau that would result therefrom.

"Well, I'll tell you what I'll do," said the old man, staring at her in a way that brought the blushes to her cheeks. "I'll pay for you to learn at the night school on the next block. Then when you are competent, maybe there will be a place for you in here!"

"Not Yet, but Soon."

SEVENTEEN comely young women looked at Maggie when she came out of the office.

"What'd he say to you, Lizzie?" demanded Maggie resentfully. Raised you?"

"Not yet, but soon," said Lizzie, humming a tune.

The stenography lessons were a failure. Lizzie made no progress at all. Her vain little head was filled with the thought of the trousseau, and the hooks would want the wrong way, and the vowels run themselves into impossible position. Meanwhile Lizzie continued at the store. Simmonds' attentions were now the talk of everyone. Lizzie could stand it no longer.

"If he wants to take an interest in a girl, why can't he do it when nobody's round?" she complained to Maggie.

"Well, say," said Maggie. "I wish to goodness he'd take an interest in me."

"Well, I'm going in to resign," declared Lizzie, and stalked toward the private office.

The girls waited. Exactly at the noon hour Lizzie emerged, a bright crimson by the side of Simmonds, whose arm was drawn through hers. Down the aisle they walked, Lizzie crimsoning still more as all eyes were turned on her. So they went into the street, and Bill, the boy who swept up, reported at 1 o'clock that they were having dinner at Haffney's.

"Well, what do you think of that?" ejaculated Maggie to the rest.

"It ain't going to stay in a place where such scandalous happenings happen," answered the homeliest of them, with a toss of her head.

The Thought of George.

LIZZIE HOIT'S vain and childish mind was fairly turned by her employer's attentions. She spent the afternoon careless of the black looks of all around her. She was living over that delicious hour again. Mr. Simmonds certainly was a gentleman, even if he was old. And somehow, George and the trousseau had begun to acquire a secondary importance in her mind.

Before they left, Simmonds had asked for her address. He had hinted that possibly a visitor might call in a taxi for her some evening when she least expected it. That was all he had said. But that night, when the reaction had come, the girl faced the problem in her room, alone more seriously than she had ever faced anything.

She was not so ignorant of life but that she could see the meaning of her employer's maneuvers. But she was ignorant enough to feel helpless. She could not face the crowd in the store again. Either she must be true to George or—well, she saw the alternative quite plainly as the hours wore away. And to her credit the thought of George triumphed.

The next day she left her rooming house and engaged a room in another. She did not return to the store. She obtained a position with Marshall's, and in a week she had completely forgotten the incident, except that she felt a little proud of herself as the heroine of a quasi-adventure.

Behind the perfumery counter of Marshall's Lizzie was in her element. An attractive girl, she sold more goods than any of her competitors. Her salary was already $5 a week. Two instead of one now went toward the trousseau.

Then one day a familiar figure entered. He was an old gentleman with a fringe of white beard, and he was accompanied by a very motherly looking old lady. They came slowly up to the perfumery counter. Simmonds looked up, to encounter Lizzie's frightened eyes fixed on his.

"Why, bless my soul, it's Miss Hoit! Here, mother! This is the young lady I was telling you about who disappeared so mysteriously from the store."

The Real State of Affairs.

THE motherly woman came up to Lizzie.

"My husband has been talking to me so much about you," she said. "I don't say you went away. But understand how you felt. You see, Herman is a little abrupt and strange in his ways. Go away, Herman! I am going to talk to Miss Hoit now."

"You see, my dear," she continued, "we lost our only daughter a year ago, and Herman grew very devoted to her. And after you got to working in the store he came home and said to me: 'Mother, one of our new young ladies is the very image of poor Lucie.'"

"I told him that it must be imagination, but he kept talking about you and so I promised him that I would call and see you. You know Herman is always interested in his young ladies, but he really felt like a father toward you. And he knows how hard a girl's life is in a big city, and wanted to do all sorts of things for you. 'But you mustn't scare the girl,' I kept telling him. He did, though, didn't he? But now you understand the situation, and—"

"You forgot, Herman, 'don't you?'" And before many weeks had passed Lizzie had made the truest friends she had ever had. And it was not long before George, unexpectedly summoned to the metropolis, found himself installed in the store.

Herman Simmonds had opened a store. And the trousseau was finer than anything Lizzie had ever dreamed of.

The Rose and the Butterfly

By Mrs. F. A. Walker

A GORGEOUSLY colored butterfly was fluttering over a flower garden. "Isn't the butterfly beautiful?" remarked one of the flowers.

"He is not as beautiful as I am," said a rose. "And besides that, he has no fragrance to perfume the air."

The other flowers did not reply to this vain remark of the rose, for they well knew her vanity, but the butterfly, coming near at that moment, heard what she said and fluttered back and forth in front of her, that she might better see his beautiful coloring, which he knew would make her very jealous.

The silly rose stood it as long as she could in silence, and then she said: "I am sorry for you, butterfly, your life is so short; you are here today and gone tomorrow."

"That all may be," replied the butterfly, "but at least I am not a prisoner, and you are."

"I do not know what you mean by saying I am a prisoner," replied the rose. "Of course, I remain on my stem, but I spread my leaves in the sun and scatter my perfume on the air, and that is not being a prisoner, I am sure."

"Till you are only a prisoner," said the butterfly; "while I have the power of going into many gardens you remain in one. And besides all that, I have many other privileges which are denied to you. I can get under shelter when it rains and seek the shade when the sun is very hot, so if my life is short, it is a merry one, you see."

The rose tossed her head. "I am beautiful and fragrant," she said, "and you are no more than a worm with a pair of wings. You are jealous of my charms, and that is why you say such disagreeable things, but as I am more beautiful than you and will live longer, I shall not get angry."

"Oh!" laughed the butterfly, "you are angry now, and as for you living longer than I, a rough wind may destroy you at any moment and your petals will be shattered in the dust to be trampled on by the passerby. You are a vain creature, but your haughty head will be brought low some day."

"How dare you talk to me in that way?" said the rose. "You creature of a day; you are as vain as anyone I ever met!"

"THOSE two need a lesson," said a bird in a tree near by, "and as the wind is blowing I think we will soon have a shower and that will finish the rose. I guess I will finish the butterfly. I am tired of hearing them quarrel about their beauty."

So saying, he swooped down and carried off the butterfly.

"Ha, ha!" laughed the rose, as she saw the butterfly fast in the bird's bill. But she had hardly finished the laugh when a gust of wind and a downpour of rain tore her from her stem and she lay bruised and broken on the ground, her beauty and perfume gone forever.

"You see what happened to them," said a toad to his companion, who had heard all that had been said by the butterfly and the rose. "They were vain and each thought himself superior to the other, while they really were of no more importance than we are, for none of us can live forever, and the less pride and vanity we have the easier it is to leave the world we have lived in."

The Centipede.

THE centipede was formerly a resident of the southern part of this country, but it has gradually worked its way to the north, so that now it is quite common in nearly every portion of the country.

It thrives best in damp and warm places and has its redeeming feature in that it catches and destroys many of the domestic pests we are well rid of. Its method of catching an insect seems to be to spring over it, inclosing and caging it with its many legs.

The belief occasionally met with that the centipede feeds on household goods and woollens or other clothing is without foundation. On the other hand, the bite of this creature is undoubtedly more or less poisonous, the effect depending on the susceptibility of the patient.

Through the Dardanelles

Twice in the same year a British fleet forced the passage of the Dardanelles. The necessity arose in 1807, when Napoleon, like the Kaiser today, persuaded Turkey to take a hand in a war against Russia. Britain determined to get to Constantinople and demanded the surrender of the Turkish fleet. She got within eight miles of the capital, practically unharmed by fire from the forts.

In the Falkland Islands there are five men to every woman.

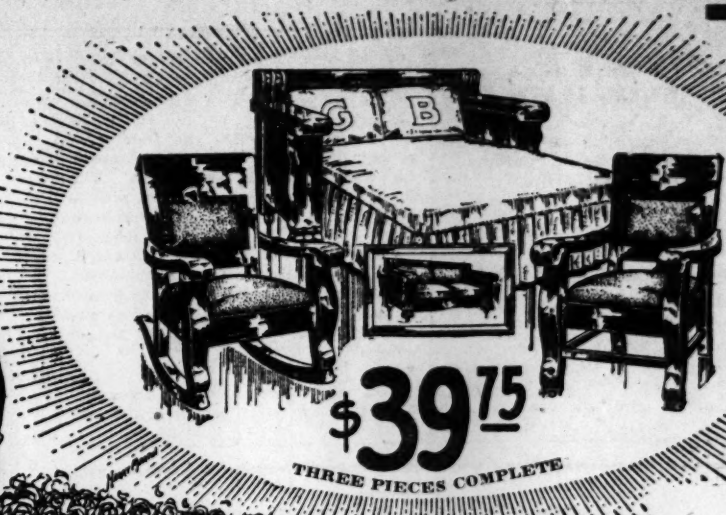

DANDRUFF SOON RUINS THE HAIR

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to destroy it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—ADV.

HUDSON

Six-40

$1550

7-Passenger Phaeton

3-Passenger Roadster

Every Extra Pound Is a Crudity

The HUDSON Six-40 is the lightest 7-passenger Six ever built. Most of its new rivals weigh 400 to 600 pounds more.

That is one evidence of HUDSON refinement. It is one result of our four-year evolution. It is one of the benefits from Howard E. Coffin's designing.

No man can say, "It's too light."

Over 10,000 of these cars have proved themselves under every road condition. Half of them have run for two seasons. They have covered, all told, at least 25 million miles. And those 10,000 owners, near and far, will say that this car is right.

Heavier cars of like capacity are cruder in some way. They may use less aluminum, less pressed steel. The difference may lie in the motor type. It may lie in less skillful designing.

The HUDSON Six-40 weighs 2890 pounds, ready for the road. A car of this type which weighs more is not of equal class.

The HUDSON shows the Light Six as it will be. All excess weight, which adds to fuel cost and tire cost, must be eliminated to meet the demands of the times.

And the HUDSON shows how the Light Six will look after the years of refinement which the HUDSON has had. This finish, this beauty, this perfect detail will be Light Six requirements.

This proved-out car offers many attractions to men who don't wish to take risks. And its very appearance will show its leadership.

There goes with it HUDSON service, which is less copied than the car. You will be surprised when we explain to you what this service covers. We invite investigators.

The Home Beauty Parlor

By Betty Dean

Mrs. T.: If your hair is full of dandruff and very oily it is caused by improper care. Few people realize how really dangerous it is to shampoo with anything that comes handy. It is needless, too, when canthrox is such a perfectly safe and simple preparation for shampooing. I have washed my hair with it for years. Just get some canthrox from your drugist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water, and a delightful shampoo is ready which has cost about three cents. It will quickly and pleasantly remove all dust and excess oil, leaving your hair soft, wonderfully fluffy and in a healthy, growing condition.

Teacher: You ask for a good wrinkle-eraser. I use this simple vegetable cream-jelly, the most effective thing I know for eradicating wrinkles and fine lines. It is easily made at home: Dissolve 1 ounce salicylic acid in 1/2 pint cold water, then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply generously to skin before retiring, and after a very few applications you will find the lines are rapidly disappearing and the skin quickly becomes smooth and youthful in appearance.

ance. This treatment energizes the stunted tissues as they assume their regular functions, and when this is done the wrinkles naturally vanish. The salicylic massage is very effective in cleansing the skin of pimples, blackheads and other blemishes.

Fleisch: You can easily stop gaining weight by making up this simple, harmless formula at home and taking a tablespoonful three times a day: In 1 1/2 pints hot water dissolve 4 ounces paraffin (which all good druggists have in stock). This treatment does not call for dieting, and is gentle, yet positive, in reducing fat. When your weight is reduced, the salicylic massage stop the treatment and your flesh will be solid and the skin free from wrinkles.

Winifred: This is that recipe for my valuable face lotion which your friend wrote me so wonderfully: In 1/2 pint hot water or which has dissolved 4 ounces paraffin, which you can get at any drug store, then add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply to face, neck and throat, and rub lightly until dry. This clears the skin of pimples, blackheads and discolorations and restores the rosy tint of complexion on and gives an added touch of loveliness to the delicate complexion. It is particularly fine for banishing the oily, yellow, "muddy" appearance of the skin.

PRESIDENT OF COSTA RICA IN YACHT WRECK

Gonzalez and Cabinet Swim Ashore and Are Without Food for Two Days.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, April 8.—Alfredo Gonzalez, President of Costa Rica, had a narrow escape from drowning when the presidential yacht was wrecked in the Caribbean three days ago. He and the members of his party had to swim ashore through a heavy surf.

The President, accompanied by the members of his Cabinet, a group of Government officials and several Congressmen, went on the Government yacht to the Talamanca region, on the Atlantic Coast. On their way back to Port Limon a heavy norther struck the yacht and she was driven ashore on the rocks. The passengers and crew had to take to the water. They were all successful in getting safely to land, but found the point where they made shore to be isolated.

It took the shipwrecked party two days, during which time they were without food or shelter, to walk to the nearest point on the railroad from which they could get back to the capital. They came into San Jose today.

The recital of the dangers to which President Gonzalez was subjected made a deep impression on his countrymen, and he was given a rousing reception as he drove through the streets of the city.

ROBBER PASSES UP THIN WALLET

But He Had Money and Fat Bill Case He Took Was Valueless.

J. T. McRoberts of 28 Amburst place, University City, about 9 o'clock last night was passing Trinity and Princeton avenues, when a man stepped from behind a tree and pointed a revolver at him and told him to throw up his hands. When the highwayman asked him where he kept his money he indicated a vest pocket where he had a bill folder.

The robber thought this felt thin and passed it by in favor of a thick wallet in a coat pocket. This he took and ran. The wallet contained nothing but valueless papers.

F. HOPKINSON SMITH DIES AT HIS HOME IN NEW YORK

Noted As an Engineer, Lecturer, Author and Artist; Wrote "Colonel Carter of Cartersville."

NEW YORK, April 8.—F. Hopkinson Smith died last evening at his home here. He was widely known as lecturer, author, artist and engineer. He was born in Baltimore in 1833, and began his business career as a clerk in a hardware store there. After becoming an engineer and contractor, he built walls at Governor's Island and at Tompkinsville, S. I., but the feat that he was proudest of was the foundation for the Lighthouse at Race Rock, New London, Conn.

When he was not engaged on big contracts he painted pictures and wrote novels, short stories and books of travel, often illustrated by himself. His most popular book was "Col. Carter of Cartersville." He was a member of many clubs and societies in New York, Boston and Washington. In the latter part of his life he spent at least six months of every year in Europe, most of the time in either Venice or London. A son lives in France and a daughter is the wife of a British diplomat.

JAPAN IS SEEKING NO MONOPOLY OF CHINA, SAYS OKUMA

Premier Cables That Mischief Makers Are Causing Misunderstandings.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Count Okuma, Prime Minister of Japan, and head of the Government at Tokyo, repeats in a dispatch to the Independent, dated April 2, the substance of an interview he gave out at home on the same day. The message cabled to New York, reads:

"The uneasiness and suspicion in the United States in connection with Japan's negotiations at Peking are based on misunderstanding and misinformation scattered broadcast by interested mischief-makers. When the negotiations are disclosed it will be found:

"That Japan has not infringed the rights of other nations.

"That Japan has adhered strictly to the principle of equal opportunity.

"That Japan is not attempting to secure a monopoly over China.

"That Japan is not seeking to secure in China any advantage which does not accord with the Anglo-Japanese alliance or with any treaties or undertakings with the United States.

"We have fully informed the United States and other interested Powers as to Japan's purposes. We believe that they are satisfied. The negotiations between Japan and China are nearing a satisfactory conclusion. I am now willing to state publicly through the Independent that Japan is quite confident of the rectitude and good faith of her position. Japan is merely seeking to settle outstanding troublesome questions in a way looking toward permanent peace and good understanding."

CHINA TAKES ALL JAPAN WILL GIVE

PEKIN, China, April 8.—The Chinese statesman who has borne the brunt of the negotiations with the Japanese envoys is Yuan Shi Kai, the President of the republic. He has carried the entire responsibility of the negotiations for China and virtually alone he has obtained the best terms he could.

During these days the President has often sought foreign advice. Only this week he received two foreigners and was advised by them to radical courses each diametrically opposed to the other. He followed neither, but continued on a course the purpose of which evidently is to afford China protection by continued negotiations and concessions. Consequently China is today discussing with Japan certain of the Tokyo demands which she at one time refused even to consider.

The progress of these negotiations is being watched with the closest attention by all the foreign diplomats in Peking, and the British and American newspapers published in China are equally interested. Just at present interest centers in what concessions China will make on the clauses in group 2 of the Japanese demands. These provide for the employment of Japanese advisers by China; for Japanese right of ownership to land in the interior of China; for the employment of Japanese police in China; that China purchase munitions of war from Japan and that she grant to Japan railroad concessions in the eastern part of central China; that China permit Japan to work mines and build railroads in Fukien province, and that Japan subjects be allowed to propagate Buddhism in China.

TOMORROW evening Miss Maude Cupples Scudder will give a dinner dance at the Country Club for her bride party and the out-of-town guests who are coming for her marriage to Signor Gustavo F. L. di Rosa of Rome, Italy, which will take place Saturday afternoon.

The bridegroom arrived several days ago. His groomsmen, Messrs. Amiel Wright Lancashire, Roger Hill, Howard Major and Angier B. Duke, and Walter bridge Taft, who will be best man, will arrive from New York tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Cordelia Drexel Biddle, who had intended coming, has changed her plans, as her own wedding to Mr. Duke will be on April 28, in Philadelphia.

Miss Scudder's marriage will be in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the residence of her mother, Mrs. William H. Scudder, 3673 West Pine boulevard.

Mrs. John H. Overall, the bride's sister, will be matron of honor, and Miss Elizabeth Edgar will be bridesmaid.

Signor di Rosa is Consul for Italy at Boston and he will take his bride there to reside during the remainder of his service.

An out-of-town marriage of interest here which took place in Santa Barbara, Cal., was that of Mrs. Virginia Lee Boyce, daughter of former Lieutenant-Governor John A. Lee and Mrs. Lee, to Richard Roberts of Santa Barbara, formerly of Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee moved to Chicago several years ago to reside. Mrs. Boyce's marriage there was followed shortly by her divorce and she and her little daughter have since made their home in California.

Mrs. Roy McCann of Buffalo, who was Miss Minnie Lee, went on to be present at her sister's wedding.

The Equal Suffrage League gave an auction bridge party this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Charles Parsons Pettus, 33 Westmoreland place, who loaned her house for the occasion. Such affairs are quite the vogue. Most of the tables are made up beforehand, by friends accustomed to playing together.

Hairs Quickly Vanish After This Treatment

(Helps to Beauty) Science has aided in simplifying the banishing of hairy growths from the face, and according to a beauty specialist, the most effective treatment yet devised consists of applying a delicate paste to the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. When this paste is removed and the skin washed every trace of hair has vanished. Be sure to get real delatone.—ADV.

JITNEY CAR RULES PLANNED

Safety First Organization in New York Takes Up Subject.
NEW YORK, April 8.—A plan intended to be national in scope for the regulation of jitney cars was prepared for consideration at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Safety First Federation of America here today. The committee had received a letter from Harry F. Coffin, chairman of the Portland, Ore., Public Safety Commission, saying that traffic accidents have increased there since the jitney service began. Other subjects for deliberation were safety in buildings in public places and aboard ships covering plans for national fire preventing campaign.

MAYOR-ELECT OF EAST ST. LOUIS TO 'MAKE IT BE GOOD'

Frederick W. Mollman Says That Gambling Houses and Wine Rooms Must Go.

East St. Louis, which Tuesday chose Frederick W. Mollman for its next Mayor by 27 votes over the incumbent, John M. Chamberlin, was informed this morning that its new boss is going to make it be good. The winery and the gambling house must go, he said, the segregated district will be kept closed and its former inmates will be forced out of the city.

The announcement followed closely Mayor Chamberlin's statement that he would not contest the election. Chamberlin, according to his secretary, said that a majority of five would be as good as one of 500, so far as he is concerned, and, since the other man had won, he was entitled to enjoy the victory.

Public Hearings on Franchises.
The new administration is to depart from many precedents, Mollman asserts. For one thing, public hearings are to be granted on all proposed franchise grants. The Chamberlin regime found itself bitterly attacked in the recent campaign because a 20-year franchise to a water company was rushed through at a single session of the City Council, the city receiving only $75,000 from the company.

Chamberlin's foes declare that before he was elected, two years ago, by the largest plurality ever given to an East Side Mayor, he promised to take a committee of business men into his counsel on all franchise matters. They taxed him with failure to keep the promise when he was up for re-election, and the accusation is believed to have cost him many votes.

Mollman has also promised that he will consult his cabinet, the City Attorney, City Clerk and City Treasurer, on all policies of importance. That they were elected on different tickets and belonged to different factions need not be a difficulty he thinks. He predicts they will get along amicably.

Two Paydays Each Month.
The practice of paying workmen in the street department monthly and permitting them to cash their warrants at a 5 per cent discount in a saloon is to be discontinued. The men will be paid twice a month, Mollman said, and "the only pay window will be the Treasurer's office."

"Any person attempting to run a gambling house or a winery will be arrested forthwith," Mollman told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "To break up a segregated district and permit wineries would be like abolishing the standing army and keeping the recruiting stations open."

Complete returns show the Mollman ticket elected 14 candidates and the Chamberlin party 13. The offices won by the Mollman party are Mayor, City Treasurer, three Aldermen, two Park Commissioners, six Supervisors and Justice of the Peace. The Chamberlin party elected City Clerk, City Attorney, five Aldermen and six Supervisors.

The Supervisors elected are J. W. Gavin, Patrick Sullivan, John Holroyd, John Joyce, R. A. Huber, C. W. Richards, George Tuthill, Joseph Baughens, W. A. Murphy, E. McAuliffe, Edward Dooley and Henry Longest.

Many Shakeups Expected.
Many shakeups in all city departments are expected when the new administration goes in. Ransom Payne probably will be the next Chief of Police. It is expected that all heads of departments in the city hall who hold appointive positions, will be replaced. Firemen are under civil service regulations, but the heads of that department were active in the campaign for Chamberlin.

The election was the first ever held in East St. Louis that resulted in the defeat of the administration candidate for Mayor.

COMPLAINTS OF "HOODLUM" DOGS

Westminster Place Man Says There Are Many in His Neighborhood.
H. W. Elliot Jr., 4446 Westminster place, and Frank Quinn, 728 East Gates street, North Parkview, have filed objections with the Complaint Board to the number of dogs at large in their neighborhoods. Elliot says there are a great many dogs on Westminster, McPherson and Washington avenues, and Olive street between Taylor and Grand avenues, and that they develop into "hoodlums." Gorham complains that his neighbors' dogs make night hideous with their howls.

The complaints were referred to Chief of Police Young. Chief Young says there is no law against the howling of dogs, and the only thing that can be done is for persons who are annoyed to have warrants issued against dog owners charging disturbance of the peace.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCardell

A Woman Can Earn Money, Says Mrs. Jarr, Just by Touching Friend Husband for it.

It was her hour for rest and recreation and, with her mind at ease, Mrs. Jarr was reading a woman's magazine with eager interest.

"What is it now?" asked Mr. Jarr, glancing across. "An article on how to tame a savage canary?"

"No, it isn't," replied Mrs. Jarr. "But it's one of the truest things I ever read. It's called 'Why I Left My Husband'."

"Oh! Just like that!" replied Mr. Jarr. "And why did she leave her husband? Because he went West and got a divorce from her?"

"You think you're smart!" said Mrs. Jarr. "But I'd like you to read this article. It shows you some things in their true light. He never allowed her any spending money in 25 years."

"It isn't as many years for me; but you've never allowed me any spending money, either," said Mr. Jarr.

"You take it," said Mrs. Jarr. "Well, anyway, he never allowed her any spending money, and he always forgot her birthday, and never told her how nicely she was looking."

"Did he beat her?"

"She says he never did, but she wouldn't have minded that. It was the lack of little attentions that broke her heart."

"And he never gave her any spending money," said Mr. Jarr. "Maybe he was her reading these women's magazines and didn't think she needed any. See, here is a whole department—Mr. Jarr had taken the bulky and prosperous looking ladies' publication and was running through it—'here is a whole department on 'How Women May Make Money at Home.' Here is the account of the lady in Baraboo, Mich., who paid for a home from the sale of burnt leather pillow covers. And here is the young girl from Yonkers, N. Y., who created a demand for home-made toothsome dainties!"

"Oh, fudge!" said Mrs. Jarr.

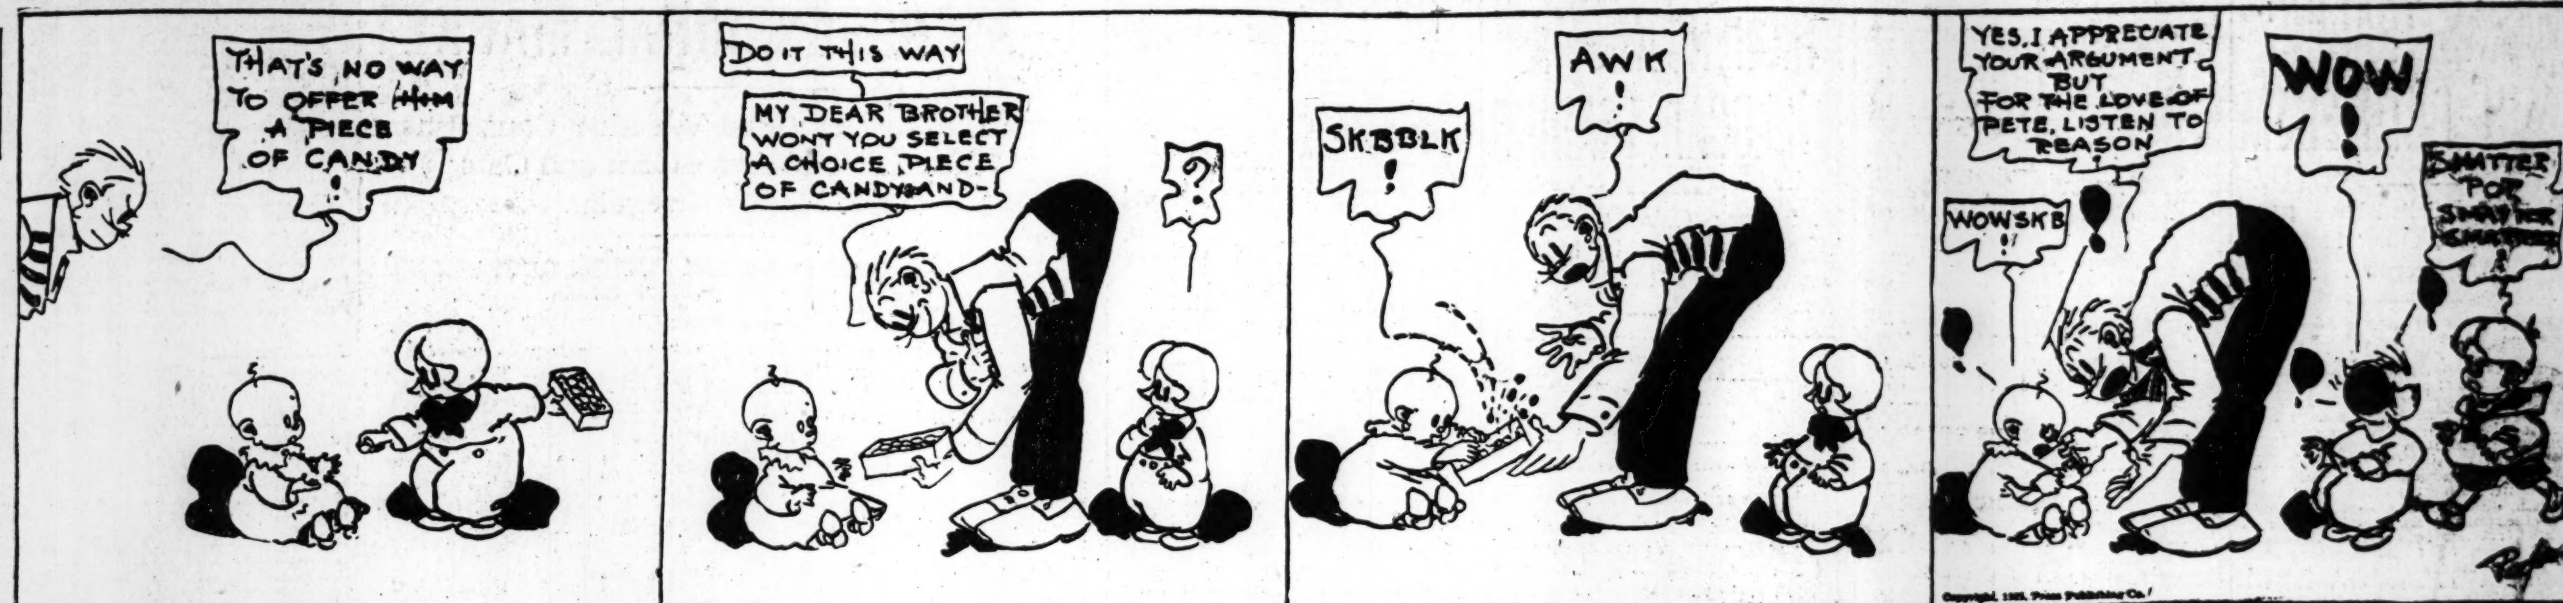

"Fudge was one of the toothsome dainties, I see," replied Mr. Jarr, gravely, "and salted almonds and toasted marshmallows."

"Well, that's one humbug about some of those women's magazines," said Mrs. Jarr. "You just try to make anything and sell it to your friends if you want to find out how many sorts of lies they can tell you. And say you do make homemade candies, you will get about three women you know to buy 10 cents' worth; and they'll do it if it was an act of charity, and then go around saying how you held them up. Then there is the woman who gets $5 worth to send to friends and never pays you. Don't I remember when poor Cora Hicket made those beautiful shirt waists and nearly ruined her eyes working over them, all drawn work and needle embroidery? And they were handled and handled and peddled around among her friends till they were soiled and worn out, and she never sold but two of them, and for those she was paid less than what the material cost!"

"If you don't believe women can make money at home, why do you believe the story of the lady's wrongs who left her husband?" said Mr. Jarr.

"Because one doesn't expect kindness from one's friends. But from a husband it's different," said Mrs. Jarr.

"Why didn't the lady sell to strangers then—the lady who had no spending money and left her husband?" asked Mr. Jarr. "Here's an advertisement: 'Ladies attention! You can make $4 a day selling our duplex noodle cutter. Mrs. Bickeraiff of Shelby, Ind., sold 600 in Evansville in a month! Light, refined work. Write for particulars.' There now. Any time you think I am not giving you enough spending money you can get out among strangers and sell duplex noodle cutters."

"I suppose I'm an old-fashioned woman," said Mrs. Jarr. "and the only way I know to make money at home is to make my husband give it to me."

And she continued her perusal of the engrossing article "Why I Left My Husband."

Don't Ever Let Anyone Tell You This as a New One

HERE'S a letter from Cholly saying he is in the upper ten at last.

"Good for Cholly! Where is he?"

"He doesn't say. This was written from a Pullman sleeper."

Suspicion Confirmed.

A CLERGYMAN tells a story, as reported in a London paper, of a worthy vicar in a rural parish who had waxed eloquent in the interest of foreign missions one Sunday and was surprised on entering the village shop during the week to be greeted with marked coldness by the old dame who kept it.

On asking the cause, the good woman produced a half crown from a drawer and, throwing it down before him, said: "I marked that coin and put it in the plate last Sunday, and here it is back in my shop. I knowed well them poor Africans never got the money."

After the Meeting.

ORATOR'S WIFE: Did the people applaud?

Orator (with bitterness): Applaud! They made less noise than a rubber heel in a feather bed.

Not Up to Date.

A DOCTOR of the last generation was noted for his brusque manner and old-fashioned methods. One time a lady called him in to treat her baby, who was slightly ailing. The doctor prescribed castor oil.

"But, doctor," protested the young mother, "castor oil is such an old-fashioned remedy."

"Madame," replied the doctor, "babies are old-fashioned things."

A QUICK, SAFE RELIEF FOR INDIGESTION

If the Peppin pills, Sodamint tablets or other digestive aids you have been taking seem to have lost their force and it now takes two or three to give you the relief you got at first from one, it's time you changed to a new remedy that works on a different principle.

When your stomach gets in such shape an effective and quick acting remedy is found in Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets, made from a scientific yet radically different formula from the usual digestive aid. Mi-o-na not only gives prompt relief from sour, gassy stomach and the full, heavy, jumpy feeling that comes after eating but vitalizes the whole sluggish digestive and intestinal machinery and makes your stomach fit to do its own digesting in a healthy, normal, painless way.

Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and leading druggists everywhere sell Mi-o-na on a positive guarantee of satisfaction or money back and stomach sufferers everywhere should prove its merit on this basis.—ADV.

The Laugh on the Kaiser.

AMONG the officers who resemble the Kaiser, Wilhelm II, is a young captain who has a prodigious talent for imitation.

Some months before the war this captain found himself in a hall of the imperial palace at Potsdam. He was there with others of his friends who were officers, and began an imitation of the Kaiser with extraordinary precision in tone, quality of voice, gesture and appearance. All at once there was a terrible silence. Wilhelm II had arrived in the hall. The officers saluted respectfully and remained motionless.

"Very well, go on!" said the Kaiser, addressing the captain. "I did not know you had this talent."

The officer hesitated a moment, then extending his arm and reproducing intonation of his sovereign, he cried in a strong voice:

"Captain, you should be chased out of the army, but in consideration of your youth and because I know you to be a worthy and brave soldier, I pardon you."

The Kaiser laughed and the captain was not punished.

A WOMAN is as old as she looks—after 18 a man is as old as he feels—after a cold bath, a shave and a dose of bromide.

The Right Place.

REALLY, Kate," said the country cousin, in considerable agitation, "I am very sorry I lost my head and kissed you. I didn't think what I was doing. It is a sort of temporary insanity in our family."

"Well, Roy," replied the young woman, "if you ever feel any more such attacks coming on, you had better come right here, where your infirmity is known and we will take care of you."

A Mean Shift.

THE teacher had been plying the geography class with questions about Mexico. Then, suddenly, without the slightest warning, she asked: "What are the Dry Tortugas?"

Johnny was so sure of himself that he not only raised his hand, but fairly wriggled all over in his eagerness. When the teacher finally smiled at him and nodded, he answered, proudly: "They're griddle cakes without any butter or maple syrup on them."
